Clubman Fined $50 in Pink Bloomer Case

Here is the Pink Bloomer Girl

Gertrude Allen, chorus girl of 19, who produced pink bloomers in court which, she declared, were torn by Charles A. Alexander, who was fined $50 today.

REPORT VILLA FORCES ROUTED BY U. S. TROOPS

APPEALS; HELD IN $500

Brookline Man Accused by Chorus Girl Will Continue His Fight on Police Court Charge

Charles A. Alexander of the Boston Athletic Association was fined $50 by Judge Dowd in the Municipal Court today on a charge of attacking Gertrude Allen, a young chorus girl. He appealed and was held in $500 for the higher court.

The testimony at the trial, two days ago, was sensational. The girl's version was that she met Alexander at a friend's apartment; that he noticed her stockings were torn and sent out for another pair for her; that she went into a bedroom to put them on, and he followed and attacked her. She said that in the struggle he bit her and tore her pink bloomers.

Alexander's version was that he met the girl, noticed her stockings were torn, and out of sympathy for her sent out and bought another pair. Beyond that, he denied the girl's story and said he never saw the bloomers till they were produced as evidence in court.

Both agreed that the next day Alexander had charged to his account clothing for the girl worth something over $85. Judge Dowd, in finding Alexander guilty, said he was convinced the girl was a good girl.

The charge of assault against Mrs. Phyllis Litchfield, sister of Miss Allen, was placed on file after she had pleaded guilty. Miss Allen was not in court, but through her attorney she declined to prosecute. A charge against Mrs. Litchfield of procuring her sister for illicit purposes was dismissed.

Rose Blanchard Crocker of Massachusetts avenue was found guilty of maintaining a disorderly resort, and fined $100 as a result of the "bloomer girl" episode. At the request of Attorney Ehlredge her case was continued until Monday.

TRAIN HITS FREIGHT ON SIDING

Open Switch Results in a Collision Near Easthampton Station; Three Passengers Are Injured

New Haven, Ct., March 24.—Passenger train No. 1104, leaving this city at 7:44 a. m. for Shelburne Falls, Mass., on the New Haven road, ran into an open switch at 11:05 this morning about three-quarters of a mile north of Easthampton, Mass., and collided with several cars on a siding.

Three passengers were injured, according to the railroad reports here, and were taken care of by physicians. Their injuries are said not to be serious. There was not much damage to equipment, the railroad reports state.

TAUNTON THIEF IN GUISE OF DOCTOR

Taunton, March 24.—The police are searching for a sneak thief, who by means of false keys entered the home of James Sweeney, No. 137 Broadway, and stole jewelry valued at $100.

The man is said to have visited the neighborhood under the guise of a physician, going from door to door and inquiring if there were any sick persons in the house. Learning that the Sweeney family was absent, he himself into their apartments.

SULLIVAN LOOKS FOR KNOCKOUT

Former Champion Declares Both Men Have Punch for a Real Decision in Tomorrow's Battle

By JOHN L. SULLIVAN,
First American Heavyweight Champion of the World.
Written Exclusively for International News Service.

New York, March 24.—Much more than the individual fortunes of Jess Willard and Frank Moran will be at stake when these two big men crawl through the ropes at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

They will be up fighting for the life or death of the boxing game, and certainly the fate at least of the heavyweight class will be in their hands alone during those ten rounds.

Therefore, there ought to be a decisive result. There really should be a knockout. Both Willard and Moran possess the punch to put an opponent to sleep, and both men ought to be trying to land that punch.

If Moran can do it, he will enjoy perhaps as great popularity as any champion we have ever had, and if Willard does in his victory will do much to rehabilitate him in the eyes of the sporting public, which has grown rather weary of his hippodrome tactics since he won the title.

If a knockout is impossible, however, one of those men should be so far ahead of the other on points, execution, etc., that the verdict in his favor will be unanimous. This will be almost as satisfactory as an actual count of ten.

If the fight goes ten rounds without such decisive result; if there is any appearance of the stalling that has gone so much to hurt modern boxing, then it will be goodnight for the heavyweight class.

Who will win? I wish I knew. A

Tris Speaker Joins Red Sox Training Squad

By HERMAN NICKERSON

Hot Springs, Ark., March 24.—Tris Speaker sprung a surprise on the boys by rolling up to the hotel this morning just as the men were leaving for the ball park. He was given a cheer by the players, who, however, didn't get out of the car to greet him.

Manager Carrigan was on board the car, so the greeting was confined to a wave of the hand. There can be no question but that the boys are very much pleased to see the big outfielder with them again.

The World's Champions are now intact for the season of 1916, for Speaker will undoubtedly come to an understanding with the club right away.

"Have you signed up, Tris?" was asked.

"No, but everything will be all right, I guess," he replied.

Further than that he has nothing to say until after he has had his talk with Manager Carrigan, who may have received word from owner Lannin how to handle the matter.

It is a safe bet that Mr. Lannin has given Tris to understand that things will be satisfactory or the Texan would not have rushed to camp.

He caught an earlier train than he expected and showed the proper spirit by going to the club room right away for a uniform. He took part in the practice of the team this morning.

OUR LEGISLATORS BEST, SAYS LUCE

Former Lieutenant-Governor Robert Luce, speaking today before the Master Builders' Association, praised the laws and legislators of Massachusetts. "There are no legislators in the United States that are more efficient and serving the people better than the legislators of this State," he declared. "I believe the legislators are more intelligent than the people who elected them."

ALLIED AEROPLANE DOWNED IN BALKANS

Berlin, March 24.—The War Office announced today:

"During the past few days there has been moderate activity by the artillery on both sides of the Vardar River in the district around Gievgeli. A squadron of enemy aeroplanes attacked Volovec. One was shot down in the west side of Lake Doiran, the machine and its occupants falling into the water."

LEGISLATORS ON RUTLAND VISIT

Worcester, March 24.—The legislative Committee on Public Institutions went to Rutland today to investigate the recent strike at the State sanatorium for tuberculous patients on Monday. Representative Malone of Worcester has introduced a resolution for an investigation. The committee will report whether or not Representative Malone's resolution should pass.

FIGHT OUTLAW IN MOUNTAIN LAIR

El Paso March 24.—A courier brought to town early today report that American troops had engaged Fransco Villa's main force five miles east of Namiquia. The scene of the battle, he said, was El Oso rano, which is skirted by a narrow road that runs outhward from Las Cruces to Choyas.

Word fro San Antonio says that reports there from Mexican sources state that Villa had been defeated by the American andCarranzista forces and that the report had been accepted by General Funston as probably true, although no confirmation had been received from General Pershing.

The courie confirmed the announcement made by General Gavira at midnight that Villa had been surrounded by American and Carranza roops and that a general attack would be made on the bandit leadr's position at dawn.

Bandit at Bay in Hills.

Villa, the courier said, had selected a position in which to give battle, being on a small plateau between the Rio de Santa Maria and the Rio del Carnen. It was to this position that Villa fell back after he had met defeat in a skirmish with Carranzista troops at Santa Gertrudis ranch, southeast of Namiquipa.

The courier also confirmed reports that General Pershing and General Bertani, commander of the Carranza field forces, were cooperating fully and that the arrangements for the attack on Villa had been made at a conference between the two leaders at Namiquipa yesterday afternoon.

This conference he said was wholly informal. The two dust-covered commanders shook hands as they met and discussed the proposed movements in the shade of an adobe hut. When they parted, according to the courier, Pershing returned to his field headquarters.

The announcement that Villa has been forced to stand at bay at El Oso was received by the military authorities at Fort Bliss, General Bell's headquarters, as an indication that the bandit leader's plan to escape had at least been thwarted for the time being.

The road that runs south to Choyas forms a junction at that town with two other roads, one running southeast, the other southwest. If he were able to reach Choyas, Villa could dictate on the subject at the earliest opportunity.

SAYS AMERICANS ARE AIDING VILLA

By International News Service.

Washington, March 24.—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois introduced a resolution in the Senate this afternoon declaring Americans who aid Villa to be "guilty of actual treason within the meaning of the law."

Senator Lewis declared it was well known to the United States authorities that persons both in foreign countries and in the United States were furnishing supplies and funds to the Villa forces.

Lewis asked that the resolution lie on the table under the rules and gave notice that he would address the Senate on the subject at the earliest opportunity.

PERSHING USES MEXICAN RAILWAY.

El Paso, Tex., March 24.—General Pershing, commanding the expedition into Mexico, used the Mexican Northwestern Railroad last Sunday to transport the troops that outflanked Francisco Villa and drove him into El Oso, according to J. C. Robinson, who arrived here today from Casas Grandes.

Rome, March 24.—A silver military medal has been conferred upon Gabriel d'Annunzio, the poet-soldier for gallantry.

LYNN GIRL HELD, WEALTHY MAN ACCUSED

The arrest of a fourteen-year-old Lynn High School girl today on a theft charge will be immediately followed, the Lynn police said, by the arrest on a serious charge of a wealthy Swampscott man whose wife is in Palm Beach.

There have been a number of thefts from girls' lockers in the High School building. The latest of these, the theft of a fur muff worth $18 and 75 cents in cash, was reported to the police today by Rosamond White of Bullfinch street, Lynn.

The attention of the police was directed to the fact that Rose Miller, fourteen, of Shorey street, Lynn, had not been at home for two weeks, and they set out to find her.

She was discovered today in a house on Blossom street, Lynn, by Patrolman Roger Dwyer. He took her to the police station and there, the police say, she told an amazing story.

She said, the police asserted, that for two weeks she has spent almost every night at the home of a wealthy Swampscott man whose wife is in Palm Beach.

They claim she told them she was with this man in Boston Wednesday night, and that she said she spent last night with another man in Lynn.

They quote her as naming a number of other Lynn and Swampscott men, some married, some single, some well to do, some in moderate circumstances, whom she has met during the past two weeks.

TRACE POISON PURCHASE TO DR. WAITE

By International News Service.

New York, March 24.—The most damaging evidence yet discovered against Dr. Arthur W. Waite, who is accused of murdering his millionaire father-in-law, John F. Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich., was produced today by District Attorney Swann. It was a receipt for a large quantity of arsenic bought by Waite on March 5, three days before his father-in-law died. The autopsy had revealed that Mr. Peck's death resulted from arsenic poisoning.

Overtures were made to the District Attorney's office for the surrender of a handsome young woman who has become involved in the case through her friendship with Waite.

The woman, who is described as being twenty-four and possessing extraordinary beauty, lived at the Hotel Plaza as "Mrs. Walters."

District Attorney Swann said that if Dr. Waite was able he would be

Rome, March 24.—The Tribuna learns from a high diplomatic source that Rumania has consented to enter the war on the side of the allies as soon as the Anglo-French forces in the Balkans open their offensive against the Germans and Bulgarians.

Amsterdam, March 24.—Heavy cannonading indicating that a naval battle was in progress was heard off Ostend in the North Sea last night.

London, March 24.—Lloyds received a report this afternoon of the sinking of two more ships by German submarines, one being British and the other Danish. The victims were the English steamship Fulmer and the Danish steamer Christians. Eighteen members of the crew of the Fulmer were picked up and twenty-two of the members of the Christians' crew.

Pershing's Troops in Battle with Villa in the Mountains

MEXICAN OUTLAW IS REPORTED AT BAY

vide his force there and confuse his pursuers as to which trail he had taken, with the probability that they would have to divide their forces also. Villa's delight is to weaken his enemies in this fashion and then make a sudden attack.

Though Villa in person was reported at El Oso ranch, it was difficult to believe that the fox of the Sierra Madre mountains had allowed himself to be trapped so early in the campaign. Other rumors had Villa at other points. Jose Gracia Flores reached El Paso with the story that Villa himself had stopped a train at Montezuma, half way between Chihuahua and Juarez, and had searched the train for Americans.

"I know Villa well and I saw him," said Flores. "He told every one that Luis Herrera had joined him to fight the common enemy and that Colonel Gano also would fight under his command."

Efforts will be made today by Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul, to effect the release from the El Paso jail of Melcher Herrera, brother of the general leading the reported mutiny against Carranza in Chihuahua.

Despite series of denials from official American sources reports persisted that General Herrera had quit Chihuahua with 2,000 troops to take the field "against the common enemy" and in Mexico "the common enemy" is the United States.

DOUGLAS, ARIZONA, AT MERCY OF MEXICANS; APPEAL FOR HELP

Washington, March 24.

THE following telegram was received today by Senator Ashurst from D. A. Richardson of Douglas, Arizona:

Mexican general has forty pieces of artillery and 3,000 cavalry stationed ten blocks from centre of Douglas. We have only 1,800 infantry, 300 cavalry and four pieces of artillery. Our troops stationed two miles east of Douglas.

Am reliably informed that it would take one hour for our troops to reach Douglas in case of night attack. Our army forbidden by administration from making any active defence preparations, for fear Mexicans might misconstrue such preparation.

Mexicans have entrenched against U. S. side and have barbed wire entanglements. We have no ammunition. Mexican troops could easily repeat Columbus massacre in Douglas on much larger scale and return to Mexico with similar loss. All of these statements can be verified by our army officers here. Help us if you can before it is too late.

HERRERA TROOPS ARE STILL LOYAL, GEN. FUNSTON REPORTS

By International News Service.

Washington, March 24.—General Luis Herrera, Carranza commander in the State of Chihuahua, has not deserted the First Chief to lead his men under Villa, according to a telegram to the State Department today from United States Consul Marion Letcher at Chihuahua City.

Consul Letcher stated that General Herrera is now at Chihuahua City, that he has not left there with his men, as reported, and that he and his garrison are loyal to the Constitutionalist cause.

General Funston also wired the War Department that his best information is that Herrera remains loyal to Carranza. General Funston's telegram follows:

"General Herrera in a telegram to General Gavira strongly denies all reports that he has gone over to Villa. General Guttierrez, Governor of Chihuahua, in a letter to General Gavira also strongly denies that General Herrera has gone over to Villa. (signed) FUNSTON."

CABINET REASSURED OVER GENERAL MEXICAN SITUATION

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, March 24.—Material improvement in the general Mexican situation was reported to the President today by Secretaries Lansing and Baker.

Today's cabinet meeting considered the general outlook south of the Rio Grande, and it was agreed that up to the present time General Carranza dominates the situation. Carranza is doing everything in his power to demonstrate that he is the "Iron Man of Mexico," according to the reports from the State and War Department representatives on the border.

He has succeeded in getting complete co-operation from General Obregon, according to these dispatches. So long as that co-operation continues, officials say, there can be no real desertion of the Carranza leaders to Villa. Officials still were without word of any real fighting by the American forces.

The fact that Consul Letcher at Chihuahua City has denied that General Herrera has deserted Carranza and that this information is confirmed in the semi-official advices from General Funston, was a source of real satisfaction to the President and the Cabinet. The Cabinet is understood to have discussed the pending legislative situation, especially the proposed Sherman resolution, which would authorize the President immediately to call for 50,000 volunteers.

It was understood that both Secretaries Lansing and Baker took the position that any action at the present time which would seem to question the good faith of Carranza must have an evil effect. However, it is believed that a general understanding was arrived at which would make emergency action possible without any delay.

There was no official confirmation either at the War or at the State Department of the telegram sent to Senator Ashurst that there was very serious danger of a repetition of the Columbus killings at Douglas. The information received from Ashurst was in entire contradiction of the reports received from the State Department agents at Nogales, who declared that there was no massing of troops at Douglas or at other points in that vicinity.

Hot Debate in Senate on Mexico.

By International News Service.

Washington, March 24.—Hot debate over the Mexican situation broke out again in the Senate today. It was precipitated by the reading of telegrams from border residents, who urged that more troops be sent there at once.

Senator Stone, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, declared it was known to be a fact that sinister influences are at work in the United States and Mexico to provoke intervention. He bitterly arraigned Senators for having reports of border conditions read in the Senate. A sharp tilt ensued between Stone and Borah, which ended by Stone declaring:

"When a man is running for the Presidency he is very likely to be led by vain delusions."

"What public good can come from reading these telegrams in the Senate surpasses intelligent understanding," declared Stone. "I went to the State and War Departments today to find the latest official information from Mexico.

CRITICAL SITUATION.

"Any man with sense enough to come in out of the rain must know that the situation is critical; critical in this sense, that an effort is being made by numerous people in Mexico and sinister influences in Mexico and, I am sorry to say outside of Mexico, to excite the Mexican people and mislead them into thinking that the expedition against Villa is intended for some other purpose."

Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, tried to stop Stone, but the Foreign Relations Committee chairman went on:

"There are influences at work along these lines, and we know it, cooperating in some respects and operating separately in other respects, to precipitate a situation, the end of which we cannot know."

Senator Stone charged the Republicans with trying to force the administration into war and made a sarcastic attack upon Senator Sherman for introducing the resolution to call out 50,000 volunteers. This started a furious debate between Stone and Sherman.

ATTACKS SHERMAN.

"Of course, I am no such military expert as the Senator from Illinois," said Stone. "I get my information from the War Department and the chief of staff, and I know that there is no necessity for such a resolution.

"The Senator from Illinois knows full well that the real purpose of his resolution is to send those men down to Mexico for the purpose of making war on somebody else beside Villa."

Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, went to Sherman's aid and assailed Stone for attributing ulterior and partisan motives to every proposal coming from the Republican side.

"Well, if you want war with Mexico, why don't you have the courage to say so instead of always dodging and beating about the bush and making use of every sort of subterfuge to conceal your real purpose?" said Stone.

Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania, brought the debate to an abrupt end by calling Stone a scoundrel in the face that he was prolonging her debate while criticising the Republicans for talking about Mexico. Then sat down and the Senate proceeded to routine business.

VILLISTA FORCE ROUTED WITH LOSS OF 7 KILLED BY CARRANZA TROOPS

By International News Service.

El Paso, March 24.—According to General Gavira and Consul Garcia, Carranza troops have met and defeated Villa and a large force at Santagertrudis.

Seven Villistas are reported to have been killed and a number of others wounded. It is claimed 100 horses were taken and that Villa retreated in the direction of El Oso.

Santagertrudis is not a town but the name of a ranch five miles southeast of Namiquipa. El Oso is also the name of a ranch about the same distance from Namiquipa, due east.

Consul Garcia adds that General Pershing and General Bertani have held a conference at Casa Grandes.

Mexicans Mass on Border at Douglas

Washington, March 24.—Residents of Douglas, Ariz., are living in hourly fear of a repetition of the Columbus massacre, according to a telegram received by Senator Ashurst today from E. A. Richardson, a prominent attorney of Douglas.

Richardson wired that a Mexican general with 3,000 cavalry and forty pieces of artillery is just ten blocks from the heart of the city, but on the Mexican side of the border, and that 7,000 Mexican infantrymen are but six miles south.

"We have only 1,800 United States infantrymen, 300 cavalrymen and four pieces of artillery," said the telegram, "and they are two miles east of Douglas."

"I don't even expect to submit this telegram to the Senate," said Senator Ashurst, "it won't do any good. I won't bring it before the War Department either. I'm tired doing down there and asking for more troops for the Arizona border. They only look at me at the War Department."

Senator Borah had read a telegram to Senator Fall, from Douglas, Arizona, similar to that to Senator Ashurst describing the situation there to be critical and appealing for help.

Senator Sheppard of Texas, had read another telegram from the border also appealing for more troops. Senator Thomas said he had received a number of similar telegrams which he had referred to the War Department.

Mexicans May Tax U. S. Army Supplies

By International News Service.

El Paso, Texas, March 24.—A report that the Mexican government might place a duty on all army provisions carried across the border prevailed here today. Mexican Consul Garcia declared no official action had yet been taken, but did not deny that it might be. The Mexican railroads have not yet been given over for the transportation of troops or munitions.

Troops to Leave Vermont Tomorrow

Burlington, Vt., March 24.—Tomorrow morning the first squadron of the Second Cavalry, stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, will entrain for Fort Meyer, Va. The Fifth Cavalry, which has been stationed at Fort Meyer, has been ordered to the border.

The First Squadron consists of troops A, B C and D, and is comprised of about 400 men under command of Captain G. A. Purrington.

The remainder of the regiment will remain at Forth Ethan Allen, so far as is known, although they are in readiness to embark at twenty-four hours' notice.

The Second Cavalry arrived here from service in Texas about two years ago. The First Squadron is made up of mostly veterans.

U. S. Not to Call on the Militia

Washington, March 24.—The national guard will not be called upon to aid the Mexican punitive expedition at the present time at least. This was made plain today by Secretary of War Baker, as he left the White House executive offices after the Cabinet meeting. Secretary Baker was asked point blank if the militia would be called out.

"Not a chance," he curtly replied.

All of the Cabinet members made it clear that no steps were being taken to call out the national guard or call for volunteers in connection with the Mexican situation.

Obregon Rounds Up Bandits.

Queretaro, Mexico, March 24.—Minister of War Obregon issued the following statement today:

"With the exception of the Zapatistas there are no organized forces in Mexico opposing the de facto government. The few bands of bandits are being rapidly destroyed."

FUNSTON CALLS FOR MORE 'PLANES

Washington, March 24.—General Funston has telegraphed the War Department to send him at once eight additional aeroplanes to be used in the Mexican campaign. This request was interpreted to mean that the Pershing expeditionary force had not located Villa. General Funston directed that four of the aeroplanes be sent to his headquarters at Fort Sam Houston and the other four to Columbus.

There are twenty aeroplanes available for service. The eight ordered will be sent from the aviation school at San Diego, Cal.

DAMON RUNYON DESCRIBES RUSH OF TROOPS ALONG VILLA'S TRAIL

By DAMON RUNYON.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

Headquarters of the United States Army in the Field, in Mexico, March 24 (Via Courier to Columbus, N. M.), March 24.—There are several varieties of hell on earth, and among them must be included an infantry hike along the dusty roads of Northern Mexico.

It is bad enough on the cavalry; it is tough on the horse artillery, and it is hard on the men of the wagon trains, and the motor trucks, and even the little fivers that go bursting by in white clouds, but way, way back in the ruck, back in the track of all the hoofs and wheels that move General John J. Pershing's flying columns steadily across the State of Chihuahua tramps the infantry, taking the dust of the whole long drive after Francisco Villa.

The first couple of days these "dough boys" could be found scattered all through the roads in spasms, nursing their sore and blistered feet, while waiting for the ambulances to set up. Today they came swinging down the Mexican highway into camp with scarcely a man missing from the ranks.

HARDENED BY HIKE.

They were "soft" in the beginning. Their feet were tender. The sixty-five pound packs on their backs tugged at their hearts after the first few miles of the morning. Now they are gradually growing hardened and inured to the work.

Horses and mules died during the first couple of days, and were left to the coyotes and the buzzards that trail every column. Cavalrymen rode in saddle sore, but the men plodded along, and made their camps every night, limping a little, but still afoot.

Their very souls are seeped in dust during these marches. It is no overload. It is powdery soft under foot. The grind of the wagon wheels and the churn of the horses' hoofs have cut the dry roads to chalk. A marching man inhales that powder with every breath. It settles in his clothing; it settles in his eyes, his throat and in his ears.

TROOPS STAND UP SUPERBLY.

By night a chill comes on from the mountains surrounding the valley through which the troops are marching, and this chill gets down in under the dust, and on into the bones of the men who came staggering in at nightfall the first couple of days, too weary to do anything but fall in heaps and pant.

Now when they get in, the first inquiry is for the nearest creek. Water is a wild rush to bathe. They are coming in with their blistered feet taped, but they are coming in with their heads up.

There will be much said, no doubt, about some of the marches made by the horse soldiers of Pershing's command later on, but there will never be any march that will equal any of the marches that are being made by foot soldiers of the punitive expedition.

During the first couple of days it was a common sight to see captains and lieutenants carrying guns and packs belonging to their men who were unable to keep up under the load. Every officer shared his canteen of water with the privates.

CAVALRY ACTS GOOD SAMARITAN, QUENCHING INFANTRY'S THIRST

Lieutenant Henry Meyers, riding along at the head of M Troop of the Black Tenth Cavalry, stopped his command beside a foot-weary band of infantrymen and made the troopers give their water over to the "dough-boys." All things considered, the horses and mules with the expedition have stood the journey well, the losses being comparatively insignificant, but the infantry has been wonderful.

The few Mexicans encountered stand at the roadside and view the long procession of Americans, that must seem to them interminable, in dumb amazement. They offer no comment, however, but rush around hunting up eggs and other articles to sell to the soldiers.

The squadron of seven aeroplanes which passed over the line of march from Columbus, headed south, and moving so high that they looked like a flock of buzzards, reduced the Mexicans to silent wonder. The equipment of the army division that is swinging over their roads was another source of astonishment to the inhabitants. They are accustomed to nimble but not to an army which moves like this one.

SEE FEW MEXICANS.

Marching has been about the extent of the punitive expedition to date. No hostility has been encountered from the men whose disappearance is not due to the advance of the troops.

Long ago they were driven out by the various revolutions that beset the republic. Once across the long stretch of dusty country between Palomas, the first stop, and the green valley of the Ascension river, the expedition began encountering signs of life, but up to that time only a few Mexicans were seen.

At Colonia Dias, in the country settled by Mormons, and one of the most beautiful sections anywhere in all this world, the American troops began seeing the ruin that the revolutionists left in their various wakes during the past few years.

Most of the houses had been burned long ago—probably as far back as the time of Madero's rise to power. Those left standing were the houses of Mexicans. It was said that a couple of wounded Villistas from the Columbus raid were in one of the houses, but the Americans paid no attention to the story. They are after Villa more than wounded Villistas.

MEET WOMAN "ENEMY."

When the first of the American flying columns crossed into Mexican territory Wednesday, March 15, it was met by just one person, a lone girl of the republic, one friendly, the other thoroughly hostile.

The "friendly" was Juan Munoz, a man whose years are as countless as the stars.

The "hostile" was his equally venerable wife.

They were the only people left in the little town of Palomas, several miles from Columbus, when the advance guard of General Pershing's cavalry column came jogging over a rise of ground beyond the town.

His back bent to a half-circle by the weight of his seventy years, Juan Munoz stood by the roadside fanning the earth with his conical hat and mumbling, "Buenos dias," as the American horsemen rode by in a cloud of dust. He was too old to fight, even had he felt so inclined. He had no old to flee. So he had to remain and greet the "gringos."

AGED MEXICAN SENORA THINKS TROOPS AFTER HER CHICKENS

The aged Senora Munoz remained in her little one-room adobe jacale. Some of the American soldiers went over to interview her after they had settled down into camp. When she appeared in the doorway, she arose, seized a short broom and began sweeping the hard-packed dirt floor. She displayed amazing vigor for her years.

If the soldiers asked her questions, she only swept the ground with added fury, raising a choking haze as she mumbled under her breath. She was a toothless old lady and hard of hearing, as it developed, but that was not that in her manner which gave the impression that old Juan Munoz has had something to contend with during his term of matrimony.

It was Senora Munoz's belief (and she said so) that these Americans had come to take her chickens. She had two chickens. Both seemed to be as old as the senora herself. From the rafters of the Munoz home hung little streamers of drying meat. This meat, too, was of an antique nature.

BOTH PEONS, AND POOR.

The soldiers could not remain long in the house, even had the senora made them as welcome as the flowers in May instead of giving off the impression that they might leave out any time they saw fit. Everything and all the other soldiers were pretty much alike to Juan Munoz, however.

He went over and examined the equipment of the wireless outfit with genuine interest. A soldier tried to explain in bad Spanish, how the throbbing machine was talking through space to the Americans at Columbus. Juan Munoz bobbed his head politely, but he did not understand. Then the soldier escorted him home, followed by some correspondents who wanted to rent a table for their folding typewriters, and old lady Munoz grabbed her broom and swept with such violence that the visitors were well nigh suffocated.

Sentries were posted over the other houses in the town, and soldiers were not permitted within sixteen paces of them. This was not so much to safeguard the houses as to protect the soldiers. There might be disease germs concealed inside the 'dobe walls.

Out of the mesquite brush Wednesday night wandered a shock-headed and badly frightened Mexican youth, who said he had come in to look after his stock. He did not know the Americans had arrived. He thought at first that some dire fate was to be visited upon him. Instead, he was given odd jobs to do and was paid in real American money. Then he was told to go out into the brush and tell the other people to come in and look after their pigs and chickens. He went and returned, but none of the others came with him.

A couple of living batracks that had once been horses and which may be horses again, straggled into camp. They bore the brand of Hermisnullo Ranch and had been hard-ridden. Maybe they had been bandit mounts. They were weak from starvation and lack of water. They picked their way to the picket line of the staff officers' horses and hung around there for hours, eating up the oats that fell from the feed bags of the American horses, until those proud chargers kicked them away.

They were for all the world like paupers begging for a few crumbs from a rich man's table. One of the orderlies took pity upon them and tied them to a mesquite bush and staked them to a batch of hay.

BURROS VISIT SOLDIERS.

Friday a big band of burros, rolling in fat, came prospecting into camp out of the brush. A couple of dogs appeared, but never a Mexican.

Such was the reception of the American column at the little town of Palomas. We say town. It is not really a town. A few old 'dobe houses, that is all. It is part of the Palomas ranch, but not the headquarters. It is one of the ports of entry on the Mexican border and the Mexican government generally maintains a few customs officers here. They are stationed at the so-called gate, on the line of the one-half miles from Columbus, N. M.

It was through this gate that the American column made its entry Wednesday morning. The gate consists of an opening in a barbed wire fence, with a post on either side a little taller than other posts. Think of a football goal and you have the gate through which the American troops rolled onto Mexican soil.

There was a guard from the infantry there Wednesday, with a guard tent pitched on the American side. When the head of the American column reached the gate Wednesday, a bunch of American civilians gathered there to see the formal entry. They were in automobiles, and it was said they came from Deming, N. M., and other nearby points.

GET ORDER TO MOVE.

The order to move from Columbus was issued early Wednesday morning, and in a few minutes the brown tents of the different military organizations began collapsing like so many punctured balloons. Presently the ground was covered with heaps of crumpled canvas, and what had been a decent orderly little tent city was wholly wiped out.

Over at the porch of the long, low yellow pine buildings, thrown up overnight by the soldiers to serve as headquarters for the general officers, stood a bunch of disconsolate privates holding the saddled horses of the officers.

"That's my troop," said a dejected trooper of the Thirteenth. "That's H troop going out ahead and I'm left behind. They made us headquarters' escort as a sort of honor because we were the first at Columbus. Gee, how it may be an honor, but I'd rather be with those fellows."

The cavalry went on down the road and then the infantry came tramping on.

The advance detachment of H troop of the Thirteenth cavalry which moved ahead of the flying column Wednesday was composed of Sergeant "Spike" Hennessy, Troopers Woolridge, Sams and Schnearfield. They formed the far point of the advance guard. Captain Schnezer, commander of H troop, rode at the head of his men beyond the point. The Thirteenth is a new regiment. It has never been under fire before the attack on Columbus. Many of its officers are fresh-faced young men, not long out of West Point.

The scrub at Columbus has drawn officers and men closer together than ever they were before.

BOSTON MAN IN TROOP.

"You see," explained a young officer as he was making his bed under a mesquite bush Wednesday night, "we men didn't know much about me, and I didn't know much about them, but now we are better acquainted. We know all about each other now. It's certainly a pleasure to serve with such men."

"That young lieutenant is sure a go-getter," declared a private, C. E. Tracy of the troop, the next day at noon, when the talk reverted to the fight, as talk in Troop H invariably reverts. "I'm glad I'm going with him. I was to have been discharged Saturday, but now I'm going right along until we finish up this job. I'm from Boston, I am, and it's a good town. When we get through I'm going back home and tell the folks how we licked Villa. If Troop sure licked him, too."

"I should say we did," chimed in another private. "Those birds can't fight much. All they do is holler and scream. When I run out I see a hombre aiming at me and yelling 'Viva Veeah!' and then he shoots at me, and I say 'Til Veeah you, you sonor of a gun!' only I said it stronger than that, and then—bowey! I got loose. No, I don't know whether I hit him or not. I couldn't tell. They don't pole our lying down and shoot at them and then rushing up on them. They said we wouldn't stand a decent orderly little tent city was wholly wiped out.

HUB PASTORS SEE SUNDAY'S CHIEFS

By International News Service.

Baltimore, Md., March 24.—A committee of fifteen Bostonians arrived in Baltimore today to hear Billy Sunday and confer with the Sunday leaders. The Rev. Asahel K. de Blois, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Boston, who arrived in advance of his committee, said today that while the Sunday plans for the coming campaign there had struck a snag, owing to the authorities refusing to allow them to build a wooden tabernacle, this would be overcome and that Boston would give the evangelist a great welcome in a brick tabernacle.

Mrs. Strauss Refuses to Return to Husband After 'Heart Tangle'

COPYRIGHTED BY INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

"The wounded woman," who says she wants neither an alleged rival's gold nor her husband's love—she is Mrs. Malcolm Strauss, wife of the artist. She is suing Mrs. Arthur R. Seligman, formerly Miss Gladys Snellenbug, for $100,000, charging alienation of her husband's affections.

Pittsburgh, March 24.—Mrs. Malcolm Strauss has come home to her rest. Her relatives, with whom she is staying, announce that she is training for the fatigues and surprises of his suit for $100,000 against Miss Gladys Snellenburg of Philadelphia, now Mrs. Arthur R. Seligman, whom she accuses of having alienated Mr. Strauss' affections while he was painting her portrait.

"Never!" she exclaimed today when asked whether she would respond favorably to her husband's reported overtures for a reconciliation.

"But he says that he still loves you," her sister explained.

"I will never return to him—never, no, never!" she cried vehemently. "If my husband's feeling for that woman was simply platonic, as he pretends, why could he not have taken her to his real studio when he wanted to paint her portrait?"

Mrs. Strauss suddenly pursed her lips with a mysterious air and said that her lawyer had cautioned her not to talk about her troubles pending the coming law suits.

"I am tired out and need rest," she said. "I do not want that woman's money, but I cannot submit to it as still when I remember the grief she has brought upon me. She has destroyed my faith, my illusion and my happiness. For her husband and I were happy before he met her."

Mr. Strauss says that your—"time will be limited and admonished—"that you indulged too freely in—"

"Why, I never drink," he drops," declared the former showgirl. "Alcohol is repugnant to me and at dinner parties I always order iced tea. I am surprised at Mr. Strauss for making such an unkind statement."

MUST WIN WAR SAYS LLOYD-GEORGE

London, March 24.—"Our first object must be the successful conclusion of the war, to which everything must be subordinated," said David Lloyd-George, Minister of Munitions, in the House of Commons.

Sir Henry Dalziel had demanded a declaration of the British policy at the forthcoming economic conference of the allies at Paris. Lloyd-George replied:

"If we lose the war, the sea ing up of any fiscal system will be wretched consolation. We must not subordinate human liberty and honor, self-respect and civilization of mankind to any trade policy. When we consider trade, the first thing to be done is to obliterate any idea of revenge."

AERO CLUB OFFERS AID IN MEXICO

New York, March 24.—The Aero Club of America wired President Wilson the offer for army use in Mexico of two high-powered aeroplanes, excelling in every way the present service equipment. The club gave as the reason the lack of proper steps by Congress to provide suitable fliers. The club also offered to place trained aviators at the service of the government.

RUSSIANS DRIVE ON VILNA

By International News Service.

London, March 24.—Recapture of the important railway city of Vilna from the Germans is one of the chief objectives of the great drive which has been commenced by the Russians.

Vilna lies in the centre of a network of railroads and its loss would be a serious blow to Field Marshal von Hindenburg. Two big battles are developing on Russian soil, one on the Dvina River and the other southeast of Vilna.

The Germans are mainly on the defensive, although they have delivered some stubborn counter attacks in the Lake district in front of Dvinsk where they are striving to hold their strong position.

The Germans are said to have from right to ten army corps massed along the northern end of the east front, although it is known that recently some of these troops have been withdrawn for service at Verdun.

News of the Russian advance has caused the utmost satisfaction and there is more perceptible feeling of optimism in official circles than has been shown at any other time during the past year. Military men regard it as inevitable that the Russian offensive will greatly lighten the burden of the allies in the western theatre of war.

The German official report today says:

"East front—Strong Russian assaults have been directed against our bridgehead position at Jakobstadt.

"East of Tuschhof the Russians attacked repeatedly our positions north of the Mitau-Jakobstadt railway. They also attempted to surprise us south of Dvinsk. The attacking forces gradually exhausted themselves.

"North of Widzy the Russians delivered an unsuccessful series of storm attacks. All the attacks of the enemy failed under our fire or broke down before our marked wire entanglements.

"Prior to the south there were no fresh assaults."

Try to Overthrow British Cabinet

By SIDNEY B. CAVE,
Staff Correspondent of International News Service.

London, March 24.—For the second time since the outbreak of the war political enemies of Premier Asquith are trying to overthrow the cabinet, taking advantage of the critical situation brought about by the movement to compel the enlistment of married men, the political foes of the Premier have made strong attacks against him.

All the newspapers today commented at length upon the political outlook, some of them going so far as to declare that the cabinet is overturned.

David Lloyd-George, minister of munitions, are among the foremost leaders of the movement to force Premier Asquith to get married men, but the scheme has been consistently opposed by the Premier.

The Morning Post openly demands the resignation of the Premier. If Mr. Asquith refuses to resign, says the Morning Post, he should be forced out of office for the national good.

The Times also delivered a severe attack against the Prime Minister, saying that conscription for married men was necessary.

French Pour Shells on German Front

By International News Service.

London, March 24.—French artillery during the night directed a terrific bombardment against the German positions on Malancourt wood. Since the Germans established themselves in this forest the fire of the French forces has been kept up from Avocourt on the Verdun front.

The official communique issued by the French War Office this afternoon states that quiet prevailed during the night along the positions on the west bank of the Meuse, but there was an intermittent cannonade on the east bank.

The text of the official French communique follows:

"In the Argonne our batteries during the night energetically bombarded Malancourt wood. Four Hill No. 285 we exploded a mine, the crater of which we have occupied.

"West of the Meuse the night was calm. East of the Meuse there was an intermittent bombardment in the region of Douaumont and Damloup. In the Woevre region heavy artillery fire was executed on both sides in the sectors of Moulainville and Regnieville.

"No important development occurred on the entire front."

Following is the full text of the German official report:

"West front—The activity of the artillery on the high road of Sommepy-Tyarol Souain, in Champagne, and in the Argonne has increased in violence.

"In the district between the Meuse and Moselle Rivers we have occupied a couple of trenches.

"Between the prisoners in our hands have been increased to thirty-two officers and 1,470 men."

VANCOUVER FORCE SENT TO BORDER

Washington, March 24.—Major-General Bell, commanding the western department of the army, today was authorized to move one battalion of the Twenty-first Infantry from Vancouver Barracks to El Centro, Cal., to guard the border.

FEAR BRITISH WARSHIP LOST

Washington, March 24.—The fear that the British cruiser Cumberland, 9,800 tons, carrying a crew of 678 men, has been lost off the Middle Atlantic coast, is entertained here today following the discovery of several log books marked "H. M. S. Cumberland" on the North Carolina shore, near Norfolk, Va., by coast guards.

WAR SUMMARY

The Russian attacks today assumed new violence, particularly along the sector of the line from Riga to Dvinsk, running through Jacobstadt. This section of the Russian line is served by a railway along its whole length and the Dvina River lies for most of the way between the two armies, so that either side, in attacking, must cross the river.

Official bulletins dealing with this fighting have a curious feature, in that they scarcely mention artillery work. The German bulletin does not speak of any cannonading; while the Russian bulletin reports artillery "dispersing" German troops—evidently shrapnel—and of "artillery and rifle firing," where, again, shrapnel is probably referred to. In still another paragraph the Russian bulletin tells of advancing "under a violent bombardment."

All of which suggests that the Russians have not yet gathered artillery sufficient to blast the German entrenchments, and that the infantry forces are being thrown forward against well-defended trenches, accepting heavy losses for the resultant territorial gains.

In Bessarabia, however, the Russian artillery is strong, and was chiefly responsible for the capture, a day or so ago, of Usciezko.

The Germans at Verdun continue making small gains along the line from Avocourt northeast to Malancourt, and the French report violent artillery firing along the line of Avocourt, Malancourt, Bethincourt, Dead Man's Hill and Cumieres.

Malancourt is the apex of one salient projecting into the German lines, and Cumieres of another smaller salient. Unless the German advances are checked these two salients must be evacuated by the French very soon.

It seems probable that the French defence will shortly be established on a line running from a little north of Avocourt, along the road through Esnes to Chattancourt. This line would be a strong one, supported by the artillery positions in the Forest of Hesse on the west and by the guns of Forts Marre, Bois Bourrus and Choisel on the east.

The British report mine and artillery activity—Joffre's famous "nibbling" tactics. The net result of such fighting is a loss of a comparatively few men, first on one side, then on the other—comparable to the exchange of pawns on the chess board.

The Austrians chronicle Russian attacks which they say were repulsed. Like the Germans, the Austrians assert the Russian losses were very heavy. But an attacking force always loses heavily. Other things being equal, the attackers will lose about four men to the defenders' three in modern, artillery-prepared attacks. It is only when the attackers are unable to bring up preponderating artillery that they suffer disproportionate losses.

Numerous dispatches from London today say a German attempt to land troops in England is expected. The reports are hung on two incidents. It is claimed (a) that the Germans are torpedoing neutral craft in an effort to clear the North Sea, so that they can concentrate a great fleet near Helgoland without being spied upon, and (b) that the Admiralty has removed the Galloper Lightship to make navigation by the approaching German armada difficult.

YOUNGMAN IS WITNESS IN B.A.A. SUIT

William S. Youngman, a member of the committee of seven appointed in 1914 to investigate Boston Athletic Association finances, testified in continued direct examination at Plymouth today that Dr. Russell A. Richards said after Richards was expelled from the association:

"I stand pat. I have seen District Attorney Pelletier and I'm going to get the members of that governing board."

Dr. Richards, as a member of the committee of seven, put in a minority report in which, according to Richards' counsel, a possibility of misappropriation of club fixtures was charged. Dr. Richards was expelled. He has brought suit for $20,000 against former President George R. Morrison and the nineteen other members of the governing board. The case is on trial at Plymouth and the defence entered upon its second day of testimony today.

TALKED WITH RICHARDS.

Mr. Youngman, witness for the defence, testified about a talk he had with Dr. Richards on a train after the rendering of the committee of seven's report at the annual meeting of the club on April 27, 1914. Youngman said:

"I sat with Dr. Richards in a train. He asked me if I took notice of what they did at that annual meeting. I asked what he meant. He replied: 'I made a statement before that meeting of misappropriation and they took no notice of it.'"

Youngman was asked to describe Dr. Richards' manner of speech. He replied:

"He turned his head, curled his lip and retorted to rasping tones."

Continuing Youngman said:

"I told him the committee has acted on every suggestion of the majority report but ignored his. Dr. Richards said it was an outrage. I told him it was the largest meeting of the club and if those 1,600 members failed to take action on it, he should be satisfied. I advised him to drop it. He replied: 'I won't drop it. I'm going to get one of those fellows yet.'"

LAWYER IS CALLED.

Youngman declared he was on good terms with Dr. Richards, but admitted under cross-examination that he said once to the doctor over the telephone, "I am obliged to call you a liar."

Frederick S. Goodwin, next witness for the defence, testified he was hired as counsel for the B. A. A. early in March, 1914, to adjust some by-laws. He said he handled practically all the affairs of the Richards controversy.

SENT TO JAIL ON OLD SENTENCE

Edward E. Kesterton, thirty-two, a builder of Perrin street, Roxbury, collapsed in the Roxbury District Court today, when the suspended sentence of six months in the House of Correction for larceny by means of a worthless check was revoked by Judge Hayden, and Kesterton was sent to jail.

Kesterton was arrested two months ago for passing a worthless check and was given a suspended sentence. A short time ago he was again arrested on a similar charge. Today his counsel entered a plea of guilty and asked for leniency. Judge Hayden then filed the latest complaint, but sent Kesterton to jail on the former charge.

SAY RUNAWAY BOY WAS BIG FIGHT FAN

Revere neighbors of sixteen-year-old James Melia, Jr., held in New York, said today that the boy did not run away because he was tired of studying Latin and algebra at the Boston College High School, as he told the New York police.

They said he went to see the Willard-Moran fight. His mother is now in New York to bring the runaway home.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Good Advice For Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food foods, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness, and it is also unequalled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Its strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks' systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the blood. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. Leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has from reports given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, its use is not recommended to nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists, we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Advertisement.

Lumbago Usually Caused by Kidney Trouble

I was suffering from a severe attack of Lumbago, which affected my kidneys and bladder. I was in such a bad condition that I could not stand in an erect position or do any lifting whatever for several days. Finally some one advised me to take Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which I did, and in a very short time my trouble disappeared and I feel better than I have in several years. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to any one afflicted with Lumbago, Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Yours very truly

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

CRIMMINS—In Somerville, March 22, Catherine L., beloved wife of Albert A. Crimmins (nee Veldhoen).

Funeral from her late residence 32 Bartlett st., Monday, March 27 at 8:30, Requiem high mass at St. Anne's Church, Medford st., at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends kindly invited.

A Supreme Achievement!

EIGHT months ago, when we outlined plans for this season, we enthusiastically brought forth the idea of one signal achievement in Morse Clothing which would far and away eclipse any line of Spring Suits at or near its price in Boston.

"We will absolutely prove to the men of Boston," we declared, "that after others have had to 'hedge' we can still continue to give quality woolens at a popular price because we have our own factory and because that factory is 'on the job.'"

This meant, of course, producing a garment made arbitrarily on MERIT FIRST. At once arose the problem—"What fabric?"—and out of relentless inquiry evolved the choice of the fabric bearing the name of Mabbett—a quality woolen to the excellence of which we are proud to join the illustrious name of Morse.

Shop as far as you like, and match these wonderful Morse-Mabbett Spring Suits against any other Clothes in Boston. They will be a revelation of VALUE to you, for Mabbett fabrics, like Morse clothes, are built on a bedrock foundation of absolute integrity.

Woven into every yard of Mabbett fabric is the personality of Mr. George Mabbett and his two sons, whose mill in historic Plymouth, famed far and wide for the quality of its product, is unique in woolendom; a mill where quality is produced first and price afterward.

If we had done as most clothiers do—begun at the $25.00 mark and adjusted the quality of the Suit as far up toward it as convenient, comparative prices would mean nothing to you. Such is not our case. We have established and accomplished quality without reference to any price, and, then, to show what our organization really can do, we have marked these Morse-Mabbett garments

$18.75

They are worth every cent of 25 Good Big Dollars

325 of these Morse-Mabbett garments comprise our striking assortment for you to select from. They are cut from 12 different attractive and fashionable Spring patterns and faultlessly finished on our "Roycroft," "West End" and "Gallagher" models. They are medium weight and full-lined with Alpaca. Regulars, longs, stouts and shorts, from 34 to 46 sizes. The silk stripe patterns in Gray, Green and Brown are by all odds the handsomest you will see this year.

¶ The many friends of Mr. Stephen R. Casey, until recently manager of the Boston store of a well known competing house, will be glad to learn that he is now a member of our retail sales staff and will gladly welcome an opportunity to be of service to them.

WHY SUFFER? TAKE BLAIRS ENGLISH GOUT and RHEUMATIC PILLS AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Lux with hot water is perfect for woolens. No rubbing; no friction; leaves woolens and flannels so soft, so fluffy.

Lux will cleanse silk underwear without turning it yellow. Read the directions for SILK fabrics below.

A Wonderful New Product

Won't shrink woolens! Won't turn silks yellow! Won't injure even chiffons!

NOTHING else like it made anywhere. Not a soap powder. Not a chipped soap. Not a cake soap! But wonderful, pure essence of soap in flakes! Even in looks entirely different from anything you have ever seen. Ready to use; no shaving or chipping required; pour boiling or very hot water over the flakes, whisk into a lather, and instantly you get just the rich, creamy lather you have always wanted. Dissolves dirt and cleans perfectly without rubbing. Made by a special formula, and special machinery controlled by the makers of Lux.

These flakes won't hurt any fiber, whether cotton, silk or wool! Can't injure anything that pure water alone won't injure. Order a package today and make some of the tests shown below. That is the way to settle for all time the product you will use for all fine laundering.

Lux positively won't shrink woolens. It leaves your sweaters, blankets, crocheted articles, all your woolens, just as they were when new!

Pure Essence of Soap in Flakes!

This wonderful new product is not only new, different, but it actually looks different. The moment you open the package, you will see that you have never seen a soap product anything like Lux.

Lux is made in the form of flakes. These flakes are thin, delicate, pure, actually transparent. They dissolve immediately in hot water. This makes Lux unequalled for speedy production of an excellent lather.

It is the modern form of soap—no shaving or chipping required. It makes an instant lather which dissolves dirt without rubbing. In fine laundering soap should never be rubbed directly on the article. Lux is such an advance over a cake of soap that once you have tried Lux, you will never again be satisfied with a cake of soap for anything but rough washing.

One important reason why you want your soap for fine laundering in flake form

Lux is made in flake form because in these tiny flakes is condensed more real cleansing value than is possible in any other form of soap.

The process by which Lux is made is used only for Lux—the very machinery which "flakes" the soap is patented and controlled by the manufacturers of Lux.

Lux contains more real soap than five times its weight in ordinary soaps, soap chips, or soap powders!

This is due to the fact that in flake form, Lux can be kept pure concentrated soap; in this form, there is no need for any air, any moisture, or any kind of "filler," which have no cleansing value. There is absolutely nothing but pure soap in each transparent flake. Lux can't injure anything that pure water alone won't injure.

These flakes melt the moment you throw them into hot water. They are so completely soluble that not the slightest trace of soap is left in the garment to yellow it.

Throw the flakes of Lux into hot water; whisk into a lather and instantly you will have just such a rich, creamy lather as you have always wanted.

Lux is unequalled for—

Flannels	Chenille scarfs	Knit mittens	Fine hosiery
Sweaters	Corduroy	Knit sacques or shawls	Muslins
All kinds of worsted garments	Chinchilla coats	Lace curtains	Silk waists
Blankets	Babies' clothes	Fine laces	Crepe de chine waists
Washable gloves	Knit leggins	Fine linen	Chiffons
		Delicate fabrics	Hair brushes and shampoo

How to wash woolens so they will not shrink

Woolen fabrics differ wholly from any other fabric. In wool, the surface of each fiber is made up of scales, overlapping like tiny fish scales.

Ordinarily, when wet, these fibers expand, but the moment alkali in water comes in contact with wool fiber, these little scales interlock, the fiber draws up—and the fabric has "matted" and shrunk.

The sensitiveness of wool fiber to alkali and to rubbing, are the causes of shrinkage.

In the choice of your soap product, and in the way you handle woolens, lies the secret of safety, of complete success in laundering woolens. Lux actually won't shrink woolens. It contains no free alkali; its thick, hot lather dissolves dirt without rubbing; its wonderfully pure, mild flakes leave woolens soft and fleecy, just as they were when new.

So many other products have claimed that they won't shrink woolens, and you may have had so many woolen garments shrink until they were no longer usable, that when we tell you that Lux positively won't shrink woolens, you find it difficult to believe. But will you not order one package and try it on some woolen article in your home? Use it the Lux way—with hot water. Think what it means to you to have at last found something which will wash woolens wonderfully!

Why silks turn yellow

Authorities on silk say that the action of alkali on silk makes it acquire a yellow color which cannot be washed out. Also that when an alkali is combined with hot water, it affects the silk fibers, breaking them down very easily. Lux contains no free alkali and gives a remarkable lather when used in moderately warm water. You can wash silk with Lux over and over again, and it will stay as white as when you bought it.

Remember these precautions:

Never rub silks	Never dry in the sun
The Lux suds when used must be lukewarm	Stretch thoroughly and press when wet
Rinse perfectly in lukewarm waters	Never have your iron very hot and your silks will look a hundred times better, give a hundred times longer service.

Now on sale at all grocery stores

The claims for Lux sound so remarkable, they have been made so often for other products when they were not really true, that you may not credit what we have told you about it. But will you not get just one ten-cent package of Lux and make these tests yourself? If you are not entirely satisfied, your grocer has been instructed to return your money. Once you have actually seen Lux and used it yourself, we know you will tell other women that you have at last found the ideal soap product for all fine laundering.

What its users think of Lux

"Before using up one box of Lux, the uses had all been justified to my complete satisfaction and delight. 'Does not shrink woolens'—proved by washing a white woolen sweater. 'Does not turn silk yellow'—the constant laundering of crepe de chine and silk waists justifies this claim. I get twice as much wear out of my silk blouses. Have found Lux especially good for fine laces and lace curtains because no rubbing is required. A white lace Syrian scarf with silver in it, which had previously been sent to the cleaners, looked like new when washed with Lux, and saved me one dollar besides."—D. Fullarton, N. Y. City.

"Lux has greatly prolonged the life of my chamois and silk gloves. For washing blankets I consider it quite the most wonderful soap ever made. And I use it for unusual things which you wouldn't ever dare to try to wash with any other soap. For instance, I washed my silk lamp shades in the bath tub with Lux, and they came out in absolutely perfect condition, quite as good as the day they were bought. There is nothing like Lux."—Mrs. J. R. Barker, Cambridge, Mass.

"I used your Lux Soap for some very fine laces with better results than I could get from other preparations, using less soap, time and energy."—Mrs. P. Dreyer, 512 East 89th St., N. Y. City.

Hunt Woman Friend of Dr. Waite in Millionaire Peck Poison Death Plot

May Arraign Accused Son-in-Law in the New York Courts Today.

arraigned on the charge of murder during the day.

While the Grand Jury investigated the case a representative of the District Attorney's office went to Dr. Waite's home and took a statement from the accused man.

Dr. A. A. Moore, who attended Mr. Peck during his fatal illness, was a witness before the Grand Jury.

Waite told the detectives he had taken drugs in order to get some sleep, but the police believe Waite may have tried to take his life.

It was not until early today that Waite learned he was under arrest. Waite made no answer when told of the charge against him, but persistently asked for his wife.

Raymond C. Schindler, head of the detective agency which investigated the Peck case, told today of trailing Waite.

"Our investigation proves that Waite's expenses were very high. He bought a handsome touring car and his apartments rent for $200 a month. His stay at the Plaza Hotel with a woman cost him $250 for room rent alone and what he spent at restaurants and in gifts for his companion must have been very high.

"Waite and the woman registered as Dr. W. A. Walters and wife. 'Mrs. Walters' is said to be an actress and we have had her under surveillance as well as Waite. Since Waite got back from Grand Rapids he has been a good boy. On Sunday he went to church twice. Before that time he frequented the Broadway cafes with young women of the chorus girl type. Whether he was a drug user we do not know."

CHARGE ARSENIC PLOT.

It has been learned that the young woman friend of Waite's left the Plaza suddenly on Saturday after receiving a telephone message from Waite to "get out at once." It was evident then that Waite learned that he and his companion had been shadowed by detectives. On Wednesday the girl returned to the hotel and removed her belongings from the apartment.

When the police found Waite, he was in a semi-conscious condition and for some time his recovery from the drug was doubtful. Emetics were administered and stimulants given him, until finally the doctors were able to pronounce him out of danger and in condition for his formal arraignment.

Dr. Waite was found in his room adjoining that in which his father-in-law had died, just six weeks after the death of his wife, in the same room, and suffering from the same trouble. They had been visiting their daughter, wife of Dr. Waite.

An autopsy of the body of the millionaire drug manufacturer established the fact that death had been caused by arsenical poisoning. The body of Mrs. Peck had been cremated, to the surprise of her friends, before any suspicions had been aroused.

The cremation of Mr. Peck's body was prevented at the last moment by a telegram from a mysterious source signed by "K. Adams," warning Percy Peck of Grand Rapids, son of the druggist, that the death was suspicious.

MYSTERY TELEGRAM.

"Suspicions aroused" read this message. "demand autopsy; examine body." Two autopsies were held. Evidences of arsenical poisoning were found not only in the intestines but in the brain.

By the will of the millionaire drug manufacturer, all his immense fortune was to be divided equally between his two children, Percy Peck and Mrs. Arthur Warren Waite, the dentist's wife.

Police investigators declare that the poison plot disclosed by the investigation prompted by the mysterious telegram, not only included the deaths of the drug manufacturer and his wife, but provided for the death of at least Mrs. Arthur Warren Waite and perhaps of Percy Peck also.

In support of this theory it was argued by one of the detectives detailed by the State that Mrs. Waite had very recently been urged to hurry and make her will.

The estate, which the police feel confident was the lure which led to the plot for the wholesale poisoning, is estimated at over $1,500,000. Mrs. Waite would be able to dispose of her share in the estate as she saw fit.

Friends in Grand Rapids declare that while Mrs. Waite was still mourning the sudden death of her father and awaiting the funeral ceremony, she was induced to make a will, "to prevent the fortune left her by her father from falling into strange hands." This will was in possession of Dr. Waite, but who was chief beneficiary under its terms, was uncertain.

The Waites were married last September in Grand Rapids. Shortly before her marriage to Waite, Miss Clara Louise Peck received a mysterious telephone call suggesting to her that she postpone her intended wedding at least until she had time to make investigations. The informant refused to disclose her identity but directed the bride-to-be to talk with a local dentist, Dr. B. H. Masselink.

Mrs. Waite went to see this dentist, who seemed to be surprised at the visit. He refused to say anything against Waite other than to advise that Miss Peck postpone her wedding until she learned more about the young dentist.

Miss Peck, however, instead of heeding this warning, made no effort to have her fiance's career investigated, but married him on the appointed day. It is believed now that the particular phase in Waite's career which was to be called to the attention of his bride-to-be by the suggestions for investigations was his relations with a beautiful young woman with whom he had been seen at a prominent hotel.

This woman had managed to elude the search by the police, by whom she is already known as the "Lady Macbeth of the Million Dollar Arsenic Plot." Waite, although but twenty-nine years old, is declared to have lived an adventurous career both in this country and abroad. His history, the story of his financial transactions and his boasted romances with women, are being carefully investigated by the police.

BOSTON SUSPICIOUS.

But for the suspicions of Dr. J. B. Connell, a wealthy relative of the Pecks, Waite's father-in-law might have been cremated without hindrance, and the possibility of establishing the cause of death made impossible.

Dr. Cornell visited Mr. Peck the day before his sudden death. To Cornell, the drug manufacturer seemed to be in good health. He was astounded to hear of his sudden death the next day. He made inquiries as to symptoms, but learned nothing to increase his first suspicions.

The mysterious telegram which halted the cremation of Mr. Peck's body, was sent, according to the police, by Dr. Cornell. He signed a fictitious name, the police declare, because he was merely suspicious, without anything definite on which to base these suspicions. If an autopsy failed to show anything mysterious he would thus be saved much inconvenience.

WAITE'S SUDDEN FLUSH LED TO TELEGRAM AND INQUIRY

New York, March 24.—A sudden flush on the face of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite gave the first vague impression that led to the investigation of the death of John E. Peck.

One who knows Waite well told the story to the American. Later it was confirmed by former Assistant District Attorney Walter R. Deuel, who has been retained by the Peck family to co-operate with District Attorney Swann.

It is a story in which psychologists may revel and on which a novelist might build a first-class plot.

A fleeting glance of confusion and surprise which a physician is said to have detected in Waite's face, caused the sending of the mysterious "K. Adams" dispatch that warned Percival Peck, the son, in Grand Rapids, to demand an autopsy on the body of John Peck.

"But for that instant's seeming surprise of Waite," said Mr. Deuel yesterday, "the telegram probably never would have been sent. Had it not been sent, the body of Mr. Peck, like that of his wife, might also have been speedily cremated, and the crime never would have been discovered."

Telling the story, the American's informant laid stress upon the personal characteristics of Dr. Waite.

"He has a strong personality and exercised powerful influence over many. This was notably the case with his wife. He is over six feet tall, rather dark, with brown hair brushed back over a singularly high, pointed forehead. The head is most striking in its long, narrow outlines. His eyes are also peculiar. They are eyes which seem to have something back of them.

"Waite's face conveys the impression of a man in constant control of his feelings—a man of great assurance and self-possession."

The physician rang the bell of the Waite apartment twice. The door opened suddenly. Dr. Waite stood on the threshold.

SENDS TELEGRAM.

As Waite faced the visitor their eyes met. On the instant they measured each other, and some strange psychological force seemed at work. The color is said to have fled from Waite's cheeks and returned in a flush.

For fifteen seconds the two men faced each other.

"Waite pulled himself together sharply," said the American's informant. "His self-control reasserted itself. With his customary smile he invited his caller to enter."

But in that fifteen seconds the alert mind of the physician had been aroused.

Waite in Trouble When a Student

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 24.—Arthur Warren Waite is guilty of the murder of John E. Peck. We have a positive case against him, and in all of my experience in the District Attorney's office I was never more positive of a conviction."

This statement was made by Francis N. Bangs, head of the homicide department of the New York District Attorney's office, who is here investigating the Michigan end of the Peck murder mystery.

"Waite is one of the most clever criminals I have ever been called upon to deal with," continued Mr. Bangs. "He would stop at nothing, and had it not been for the investigation others would have met the same fate as did Mr. and Mrs. Peck.

It was learned here positively that evidences of arsenic poisoning were found in the body of Peck after the second autopsy, which was performed by Dr. Otto E. Schultze of New York and Dr. Perry S. Peck, Dr. Schultze left with Dr. Schuris for Ann Arbor, where they will confer with Dr. Victor C. Vaughan.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

CAN'T FIND DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderine rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff or any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.—Advertisement.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

Look at tongue! If feverish, bilious, constipated, take no chances.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

On Face and Hands. Got No Sleep Because of Intense Irritation. In Two Months

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When I was ten years of age, I was troubled with eczema on my face and hands. It took the form of pimples which grew larger and there were so many of them that I was ashamed to go out. They itched and burned for three months and I got no sleep at night because of the intense irritation caused by scratching all the time. I thought I would be disfigured for life.

"I tried several remedies but they were of no use to me. I read of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to get them and in two weeks I could see a rapid change and I was entirely healed in two months." (Signed) Angelo Di Napoli, 168 Endicott St., Boston, Mass., Aug. 3, 1915.

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica liniment, which never disappoints and cannot burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old honest "St. Jacob's Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Advertisement.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

GUARD NOT IN EVIDENCE AT HARMON HOME

Mrs. Adelaide E. Harmon, seventy-one, of Walton street, Dorchester, who has filed suit against her husband, a half breed Indian, to recover $10,000 worth of property, denied herself to callers today.

As the result of a statement made by the woman to the effect that she was forced to hire an armed guard to protect herself against her husband, curious throngs surrounded her home. There was no armed guard in evidence, however.

Mrs. Harmon, who was the widow of W. Bowman Cutter, a hardware dealer, eloped two years ago with her chauffeur. He was more than forty years her junior, and was a former student of the Carlisle Indian School.

In the papers in the suit which she has just filed in the Suffolk Superior Court, the woman alleges that her husband has treated her cruelly and abusively, and that she was forced to barricade herself in her house for fear of him.

The Harmon home is located in the rear of the Henry L. Pierce school, in the most exclusive section of Dorchester. It is on the second floor of the two-family house, and when the AMERICAN representative arrived there this morning, someone was playing a piano.

When the bell was rung, a woman's voice was heard to say: "If that is another reporter don't let him in. Be sure you give no information."

When the reporter asked for Mrs. Harmon, the same voice replied through the speaking tube: "Mrs. Harmon is not in. We have nothing to say."

Mrs. Harmon claims that her husband has interfered with her personal liberty, deprived her of the companionship of relatives and friends and refused to allow her out of the house except in his company. She further charges that he has frequently threatened to kill any one who interferes in their domestic troubles.

Through alleged false representations she claims that her husband has secured property worth $30,000. This property, she says, consists of about $15,000 in bank deposits, $4,000 in cash, an automobile and a transfer on their Walnut avenue home. It is this property she is seeking to recover.

WORKMAN'S EYE IS BADLY INJURED

Ernest Baldi's right eye was badly injured by a screw driver attached to a heavy handdrill at the Bartlett street, Roxbury, car shops of the Elevated. He was working a pit under a car today. The drill, with its screwdriver bit, slipped and fell so that the point of the screwdriver struck the eye. He was sent to the City Hospital. He lives at No. 13 Oakdale street, Jamaica Plain.

DANA'S GRANDSON SUED FOR DIVORCE

New York, March 24.—Mrs. Muriel G. Sanders Draper brought suit for divorce from Paul Draper of No. 24 East Fifty-seventh street, a well-known American tenor, the grandson of Charles A. Dana, once editor of the New York Sun. Mrs. Draper names Hazel Barnes. The Drapers were married in Massachusetts about ten years ago.

ALUMNI SERVICE BUREAU REPORTS

New York, March 24.—The Charles F. Noyes Company sold to Daniel P. Morse for the estate of George Bell, eight inches of ground adjoining No. 49 Walker street, purchased recently by the Morse Company. The strip perfects title to the building. The price was $2,500.

MALLORY LINER IN TOW OF U. S. CUTTER

Norfolk, Va., March 24.—The revenue cutter Onandaga reached the disabled Mallory liner Alamo, 130 miles northeast of Cape Hatteras, early today. The liner bound to Mobile with passengers and freight probably will be towed into Hampton Roads. Its rudder is broken and engine trouble has also developed.

BLAZE THREATENS FORT FAIRFIELD, ME.

Houlton, Me., March 24.—A fire which originated in a drug store in Fort Fairfield early today threatened to wipe out the town. A gale was blowing and many building ignited. The loss is estimated at between $15,000 and $18,000.

BEATRICE L. SHERIDAN, plucky Somerville girl, who captured youth who annoyed her on the street.

Girl Tells How She Captured Young Annoyer

Somerville's "pluckiest girl," Beatrice L. Sheridan, twenty-one, of No. 10 Pearson avenue, West Somerville, is today nursing a badly discolored ear and a bruised jaw which she will exhibit tomorrow in the Somerville district court when she testifies against her sixteen-year-old assailant, whom she captured when he attacked her Wednesday night in front of her home.

The vicious blow she received caused her to fall to the sidewalk. As she fell she grappled with the young man who had previously made an insulting remark. She held him until help came. The lad proved to be Elmer MacInnis of No. 145 Lowell street, Spring Hill.

Miss Sheridan said today:

"I just took a chance. I didn't know whether he was sixteen or sixty or whether he had a gun or not, but I thought all those kind of fellows were cowards. I just wanted to test this fellow out.

"My ear pains me and my jaw is pretty sore, but there is great satisfaction in knowing that I carried through what I undertook."

Jewelers in Session.

The delegates to the annual two-day convention of the Massachusetts Retail Jewelers' Association gathered at the American House today for their closing sessions.

MOTHER OF WAR BABY WILL BE DEPORTED

Della Burke, mother of the Somerville war baby, was dispatched to New York today by the immigration officials and will be deported. She was taken direct to the train from the Carney Hospital, where physicians had found her mentally defective. An American Line steamer will take her back to England.

She was in charge of the matron of the immigration station, Mary Kelly, on the trip to New York.

Before leaving she said she had received a letter from her soldier sweetheart and that he would meet her in England and marry her if he could get leave of absence.

SHACKLETON AT SYDNEY AFTER TWO-YEAR TRIP IN ANTARCTIC

By International News Service.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 24.—Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton, famous explorer, has returned from the South Polar expedition. Sir Ernest left for the South Pole late in 1914. No news as to the achievements of the expedition was given out.

Lieutenant Shackleton's expedition planned the biggest polar journey ever attempted by an explorer.

Part of the expedition sailed for Ross sea on the Aurora, but Lieutenant Shackleton and the remaining members of the party sailed from Liverpool for Buenos Ayres on September 19, 1914. On October 26, they set out from Argentina for the Weddell sea on board the Endurance. The original plan was for the Shackleton party to cross the Antarctic ice over the South pole to Ross sea, a distance of 1,700 miles, the two sections of the expedition to meet in April, 1915.

Hyde Park Has Hearing on Its Cheap Gas Bill

Representative Robert B. Martin and Attorney Philip P. Coveny, both of Hyde Park, appeared before the legislative Committee on Lighting today, in support of the latter's bill for a uniform gas rate in Boston.

According to the sponsors of the bill, residents of Hyde Park are forced to pay $1.15 a thousand feet for gas, while other residents of Boston pay 80 cents.

S. E. Wardwell, representing the Massachusetts Gas & Electric Light Association, opposed the bill because of the distance of Hyde Park from the city proper. Albert E. Pillsbury, representing the Association of Massachusetts Gas Companies, also opposed the bill on the same ground.

WILSON IS DONE, SAYS SENATOR SMITH

"That man in Washington is through. The people of this country have got his measure," declared Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan in an interview in the Executive Council chamber while he was waiting to see Governor McCall today.

The Senator from Michigan was en route to Washington from Maine where he addressed the Republican convention and stopped off in Boston to pay his respects to the Governor, who was a congressional associate of his for the past twenty-two years.

Senator Smith predicted a sweeping victory for the Republicans in the coming presidential campaign, and based his opinion on the "wonderful national spirit" exhibited in the Maine convention. He said he was amazed at the enthusiasm of the delegates and declared the weak-kneed Mexican policy of President Wilson would prove his undoing.

Senator Smith would not say who he believed the Republican candidate would be.

"They will find the man," he said, "and any good man can win."

"What do you think of our Governor's chances?" the Senator was asked.

"There are a great many people who believe Sam McCall is capable of filling any position in this country and I am one of them," he replied. "But," he added, "I would not want my friendship for the Governor to embarrass him."

BOY'S CLUB FUND INCREASING FAST

A substantial increase in the fund for a new Bunker Hill Boys' Club, reported at the noon luncheon today, brought the total to $60,739.50. Today's total was $12,486; Harris G. Leroy's team leading with $1,845.

An energetic team made up of boys belonging to the club brought in pledges for more than forty dollars.

John Willey, the small lad whose picture is on the campaign literature, delivered a few words to the teams and captains assembled.

"We need the money—we want a new clubhouse in place of the old one. We boys hope you will raise that $125,000. We've got to get it."

The luncheons are growing in enthusiasm under the leadership of Carrol Swan, who directs cheering and assists with songs.

Campaign Manager S. M. Hard calls for united action, and cautions solicitors against accepting small sums when larger ones might be collected.

LOOK UP THE CAREER OF ALLEGED THIEF

For the purpose of making a further investigation into his career, the Chelsea police today secured a continuance in the case of Fred Merills, twenty-seven, of Park street, Chelsea, who appeared in the Chelsea court charged with the larceny of an automobile and doctor's instruments from Dr. John McPhail of Chelsea. Merills was held in $2,000.

Diversion of Night Cars.

Commencing tonight at 12:30 a. m. and continuing until about 5:30 tomorrow morning, on account of track repairs on Brighton and Leverett streets, all outbound East Cambridge night cars from Adams square will be run via Washington, Canal, Causeway, Portland, Chardon, Green, Chambers, Cambridge, North Charles streets and thence regular route.

Floods Tereaten Merrimac Valley; Rain Predicted

Freshet conditions, consisting of thick snow, frozen ground and the probability of rain, are creating much apprehension throughout the Merrimac Valley.

The weather bureau has predicted warmer weather with rain tomorrow night, and as a result disastrous floods are feared.

At Lakeport, Plymouth, Concord and Nashua, New Hampshire, there are from fifteen to twenty-four inches of snow on the level. In the hills the snow is drifted from three to ten feet deep and the Merrimac is frozen a foot throughout its course.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

The skill shown by Miss Ellen Tufts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tufts of Gloucester street, at tennis and golf at Pinehurst, N. C., has won praise for this Boston debutante.

Miss Tufts's cleverness promises to place her in the front rank galaxy of State women amateurs during the coming tennis season.

She made her debut this year at a fashionable coming out party. She has also assisted at several important debutante parties. She belongs to this year's Sewing Circle and is known as an outdoor girl by her friends.

o o o

Debutantes remaining in town will be the guests at the Signet Society dance tonight. The members will receive at the club house in Cambridge, and among the "Buds" who will attend are: Miss Christianna Councilman, Miss Anna Agassiz, Miss Emily Wesselhoeft, Miss Augusta Prescott, Miss Rosamond Batchelder, Miss Martha Reuter and Miss Hortense Sauveur.

The committee in charge includes W. H. Meeker, chairman; Graham B. Blaine, '17, of Taunton; Hunt Wentworth, '17, of Chicago, and Edward Allen Whitney, '17, of Augusta, Me.

The patronesses are Mrs. William T. Councilman, Mrs. John R. Batchelder, Mrs. George W. Benedict, Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell, Mrs. Charles E. Grandgent and Mrs. Roger B. Merriman.

o o o

Mrs. Stannard of No. 19 Chestnut street has cards out for a reception in honor of Mrs. Alice Park tonight. Mrs. Park was a member of the Ford Peace Exposition.

CUT OUT MEATS IF KIDNEYS ARE TROUBLING YOU

Uric Acid in meat excites Kidneys and Irritates the Bladder.

Noted Authority says we must flush Kidneys with Salts if Back hurts.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Advertisement.

JUST Twenty-Seven Years Ago

FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS we have been doing business in New England and have been successful. This is indisputable proof that the people approve of the business policy which we originally framed when we first began, and that has been strictly adhered to by us since.

SATISFACTION to the CUSTOMER down to the slightest detail—the SQUARE DEAL first, last and always—the BEST POSSIBLE MERCHANDISE AND SERVICE at the LOWEST POSSIBLE COST—and the GREATEST VALUE obtainable for the customer's money are the FOUR CORNER STONES upon which has been built our great chain of successful retail Clothing stores.

From the modest beginning in our little 20x60 store which was opened in 1889, with many misgivings but great hopes, our business has expanded and grown until today we own and operate the greatest chain of SUCCESSFUL RETAIL CLOTHING STORES, and do by far the LARGEST BUSINESS, of any house in our line of trade in New England.

There is no effect without a cause, and the principal cause for the vast growth of our business is the liberal, yes, generous, HONEST TREATMENT OF OUR CUSTOMERS through these years of expansion. We have conducted our business on the broad basis that the interests of the buyer and seller are in reality one and to retain a customer's patronage and good will it is necessary at all times to consult the customer's welfare.

FROM THE LEADING MANUFACTURERS OF MEN'S, WOMEN'S, BOYS' and GIRLS' APPAREL we have selected their choicest productions and now have ready for your inspection the best, largest and most complete stock of new, STYLISH, DEPENDABLE APPAREL FOR EVERY MEMBER OF THE FAMILY that it has ever been our privilege to submit, which we now offer at a most radical disregard for profits.

STYLE FOR STYLE—QUALITY FOR QUALITY—THE VALUES found here will compare favorably with the lowest prices quoted anywhere by anybody for equally good merchandise. Back of this is our UNQUALIFIED GUARANTEE OF PERFECT SATISFACTION, and we are "on the job" all the time to protect that guarantee. Our hundreds of thousands of satisfied customers throughout New England know this and those who don't owe it to themselves and their best interests to investigate our claims before buying their Spring Clothing for themselves or any member of their family.

OUR CHARGE SYSTEM is a very simple one and may be summed up in the one word "CONFIDENCE." Years of experience have taught us that an honest person is always safe to do business with and that if the conditions are not difficult or burdensome such a person can be depended upon to fulfill them. The great masses of the people of moderate means at times find it difficult to pay spot cash for their clothing necessities and equally impossible to secure accommodation at the majority of the large retail stores, not because they are not honest but because their names are not found in the BLUE BOOK OR SOME COMMERCIAL AGENCY'S REPORT. OVER ONE QUARTER OF A CENTURY OF EXPERIENCE PROVES to us that an account can be MORE EASILY PAID IN EASY PARTIAL PAYMENTS than in a lump sum, and our CHARGE POLICY PROVIDES for this privilege. It enables the WORKING MAN—THE BONE AND SINEW OF THE LAND—to have such CLOTHES as HE AND HIS FAMILY WANT WHEN THEY WANT THEM AT A PRICE HE WANTS TO PAY. There is no extra charge of any kind made for this accommodation. We cordially invite your careful and critical inspection of our business methods as well as our merchandise.

TURKS FRIENDLY TO U. S. ASSERTS MORGENTHAU

Henry Morgenthau of New York, United States Ambassador at the Court of the Sultan, in this country on leave, is in Boston, having arrived this morning with his wife. Until their departure tomorrow at 1 o'clock tomorrow, the time is filled with important engagements.

In an interview with a Boston AMERICAN reporter in his suite at the Copley-Plaza, Ambassador Morgenthau said there is the friendliest feelings towards Americans on the part of the Turkish people.

Asked how the war is affecting commerce at Constantinople, the Ambassador replied:

"There is no commerce, no imports, no exports. You see the Dardanelles are closed by the allies, and Russia is blocking the Bosphorus.

"Does Turkey expect a renewal of the allied attempt to force the Dardanelles?"

"No; the Turkish people believe that attempt will never be repeated."

"How does the war affect foreigners living in Constantinople?"

"Everybody goes about his business without molestation. There are some 900 citizens of belligerent nations interned, but there are many thousands of outsiders in the capital who have perfect liberty.

"Everybody who wants to get out of Constantinople or out of Turkey are allowed to depart. Many have left, especially English and French."

"I see no sign whatever of Turkey backing out of the war," he said in reply to question.

"The Turks are very friendly to the United States. This applies especially to their treatment of our missionary institutions and colleges to which they afford every consideration."

Ambassador Morgenthau called on Governor McCall, to pay his respects, at 2:30 this afternoon.

At 4:30 he met the women—headed by Mrs. Mary Morton Kehew—who are interested in the Girls' College at Constantinople.

Tonight he will speak at the City Club.

Tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock the Ambassador will hold an important conference at the Hotel Vendome with the officers of the American Board of Christian Foreign Missions.

T. R. MEN ISSUE DEBATE CHALLENGE

A challenge to the Old Guard for a series of public debates throughout the State on the Presidential situation was issued today by the Roosevelt-for-President delegation.

"The issue," say the Young Guard in their challenge, "is whether Roosevelt is the first choice of the Republicans of Massachusetts or whether they have no choice and prefer to leave the selection of their candidate for the President to delegates whose present preference is unknown.

"It is our wish that this issue should be thoroughly understood by the voters in order that their decision as the polls may truly represent the will of a majority of the Republicans in this Commonwealth."

The challenge addressed to Messrs. McCall, Lodge, Weeks and Crane and is signed by Messrs. Cushing, Bird, Gardner and Washburn. Governor McCall today declined to comment on the challenge.

Charles S. Baxter, the Old Guard campaign manager, issued a statement in which he said the Maine results gave the Old Guard cause for rejoicing in this State.

LOSES HIS SUIT ON TAUNTON LAW FIRM

Taunton, March 24.—A jury today brought in a verdict for the defendant in the $10,000 suit of William R. Allen of Westport against Frederick A. Brayton, a Fall River law firm. He sought to recover money expended by him as a result of alleged false statements made by members of the law firm. Judge Dubuque instructed the jury to bring in a verdict in favor of Mr. Brayton and allowed the case against Mr. Jennings to go to the jury.

CONSIDER NEW BILL UPON SMALL LOANS

A bill limiting interest charges on small loans to 3 per cent. a month and eliminating all paper charges is under contemplation by the members of the Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs. The bill is under consideration as a substitute for the Hawley measure, which would limit the charges to 3 per cent. a month.

GIRL CONFESSES SHE MURDERED HER RIVAL

By International News Service.

Lexington, Ky., March 24. — Confronted by a sheriff's posse, who had arrested her father, John Monroe, her mother and two brothers, on a charge of murdering Miss Eva Gregory, nineteen, a society girl of Hardin Springs, Ky., Miss Lilla Monroe, twenty-four, is alleged by officers to have confessed that she murdered Miss Gregory.

The cause, she stated, according to officers who gave out the story of the alleged confession, was that she was jealous of the attentions a young man of the neighborhood was paying to Miss Gregory.

Miss Gregory was slain as she rode horseback along a lonely road near her home. There were few clews, but a sheriff's posse took bloodhounds to the scene and the dogs soon struck a trail. This they followed to the home of John Monroe, a prominent farmer. The family was placed under arrest.

Seeing that her entire family would be subjected to unjust suspicion, Miss Monroe then broke down and confessed.

The name of the man in the case has not been made public. Both girls were members of the same set and had formerly been good friends.

PLANT JUICE HAS SURELY CURED ME

Sensational Testimonial Given by Mrs. Ellen Nelson of Everett, Mass.

Plant Juice, the famous herbal stomach remedy, is invaluable in aiding all cases of stomach, liver and kidney trouble and rheumatism. It acts like a miracle, purifies the blood, causes the food to digest perfectly, and puts the whole system in a strong healthy condition.

Only recently the following signed testimonial from Mrs. Ellen Nelson, who lives at No. 8 Irvin street, Everett, Mass., where she has resided for the past 15 years and is a well-known and popular lady, stated:

"For four years I have suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia, my food fermented and caused gas in my stomach and I suffered agony. I had palpitation of the heart, caused from gas, shortness of breath, headaches, was very dizzy at times, and could hardly stand on my feet. I was so nervous that I could not sleep at night and became so weak that I could not do my housework. I could not keep anything solid in my stomach and had to live on tea and toast. I was in a general run down condition and was laid up for over a year. I had tried everything I ever heard of in the hope of getting some relief, but nothing did me any good until I started to take Plant Juice, and that built up my whole system up. I can eat anything now and digest it; sleep well at night, have no more trouble from gas, and am happy to state publicly that I am a well woman now—entirely owing to Plant Juice."

The Plant Juice man is at the drug department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. —Advertisement

WOUNDED WOMAN COLLAPSES IN COURT

Owing to the weakened condition of Mary Sarsen, twenty-two, married, of No. 201 Bates road, Revere, who, according to the police, was stabbed five times by Mrs. Lucy De Stefan, thirty-two, of Elmwood street, Revere, who is charged with assault with intent to murder the Sarsen woman, the case was continued to March 31.

The Sarsen woman collapsed five times in the Chelsea Court today and was finally taken to her home in the police ambulance. The stabbing took place last Thursday as a result of an argument over a domestic affair.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

BOXING IS AT STAKE, JOHN L.

Veteran Says Big Fight Means Life or Death of Boxing—Hopes for K. O.

week ago I was inclined to favor Moran, but today I have decided to let the other boys do all the advance picking, and, for my part, all I will say now is, "May the best man bring home the bacon."

Willard apparently is in tip-top shape, and so is Moran, but I think Jess is in better condition now than he was a week ago, while Frank has been at the top of his form for ten days, and, with no room for further improvement, every one of his seen a possible chance of backsliding.

HURTS TO BE OVERTRAINED.

There is no more delicate piece of machinery than a perfectly trained athlete at the minute he gets in the absolute pink, and sometimes he has proved to be almost as bad to be trained too fine as not to be trained at all.

They tell me Moran will be outweighed forty or fifty pounds. Any man Moran's size, and with Moran's head and brave, can give away that amount of weight without any great peril.

I don't know how many of the men who read this will remember back as far as August 6, 1885, but those who do will remember that on that date I met Herbert Slade at Madison Square Garden, and put him out in three rounds.

Slade weighed a little over 225 pounds, as I remember it, and I was just under 190. And yet his advantage of more than thirty-five pounds didn't help him any and I would have won just as easily if he had been ten or fifteen pounds heavier. On November 10, 1914, at the Garden, I knocked out John Laffin, who ran 210 pounds outweighed me by more than twenty pounds.

Moran will have to keep his left hand higher than usual if he is going to avoid Willard's straight left, and the deadly right uppercut, which Jess seems to have learned pretty well from Jack Johnson. But Willard will lower over Moran by a few inches and I think this fact in itself will make Frank keep his hand higher usual.

Willard, of course, has it figured out that so long as he can keep Moran from landing that right he is all safe, and it may be that the champion will be content to make a stand-off fight, depending on straight jabs with his long arms to keep Moran away, and declining to take a chance at close quarters in an effort to land a decisive punch.

I hope this won't be the case. I hope the men will get in there, too, to fight, and give the great crowd it's money's worth. The people are entitled to a good fight. It will be the most wonderful house ever drawn together by a ten-round, no decision boxing match, and those men don't fight their best they ought to be driven out of the ring.

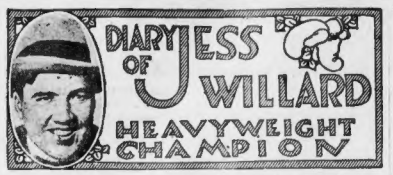
GAME GOOD TO BOTH.

Willard and Moran both owe it to the fighting game, as a game, to give their best efforts. Look what boxing has done for both of them. Four years ago Willard was practically penniless, and he might still be punching cows for $40 a month and his keep, if it hadn't been for boxing.

And Moran, who will get the "short" end of the purse. He will receive enough to keep a reasonable man a lifetime—more money than ever will be owned by probably 97 per cent. of the people who will add their bit to make this purse possible.

I don't think there is any doubt about how Moran will acquit himself. He is a fighter of long experience, and owns a clean record. Willard's record is clean, too, in that he has always tried, but every time I think of Willard I am reminded of one thing, which is this:

They don't make fighters at the age of twenty-five, or twenty-six, or twenty-seven, or twenty-eight. A real fighter usually starts to serve his apprenticeship at seventeen or eighteen, when almost all he has is a stout heart, a fair punch, and a desire to learn the game.



New York, Friday, March 24.

EVERYTHING was rosy when I opened my eyes yesterday on my final day of training. With the day of freedom at hand I hopped out of bed with the determination to make it a red-letter occasion.

Shortly after seven I was up and in my gym suit. I immediately tackled the first operation of bending to the floor. Then I shifted to the pulley exercise. My next move was to invite Monahan and Hemple into my room to go through a little feinting, so as to improve my defence.

At the conclusion of this performance I danced around, battling an imaginary Moran until I had my body saturated with perspiration.

Maps Out Plan of Attack with Tom Jones.

Stripping off the moist clothes I was given a dry rub and then there was a dash to the tub. We had breakfast at 9 o'clock and then trotted up to Tom Jones' room to talk over the coming encounter.

I AM SATISFIED THAT THE PLANS ARRANGED WILL WORK OUT SATISFACTORILY. MORAN AND I SUFFER FROM THE SAME HANDICAP. NEITHER HAS SEEN THE OTHER MAN FIGHT. Of course, we know each other's style in a way, but that is far different from getting a man in action. When we finished our milkfest I donned my heavy coat and took a long walk. Shortly after 1 o'clock we all went to the Pioneer Club.

When I entered the ring on the stage I didn't waste much time. I wanted to box. Each man boxed me two rounds, making six rounds of hard scrapping. They swatted me as if they were battling for the championship, and I slammed them harder than any other day of training.

Looks Good Taking His Final Workout.

My left was working magnificently and seldom missed its mark. On a few occasions I whipped up my right uppercut and it batted 1.000. I left the stage in superb form, as far as physical condition is concerned.

I AM DOWN TO FIGHTING WEIGHT.
I AM IN PERFECT CONDITION.
I AM FIT AND READY TO DEFEND MY TITLE.

That is all I can say about myself and it is all that's necessary to say.

Today I will run down to the Pioneer Club, but simply to go through a few of my training stunts for the "movies." When that is over I won't put on a glove until I enter the ring Saturday night.

TICKETS GO IN A HURRY

Bulk of Cheaper Priced Seats Gobbled Up by "Scalpers"—Hence, D. O. P. Squawks.

New York, March 24.—The prevailing odds on the fight today were 10 to 7 Willard will win either by knockout or popular decision. There was only a little Willard money at this figure, but there was less of Moran's. The gambling fraternity seems to be "off" the scrap, as far as risking its coin is concerned.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Gallery tickets for the Willard-Moran bout were placed on sale at Madison Square Garden early yesterday morning, and despite all efforts of the promoters of the big bout, a large batch of tickets fell into the hands of speculators.

The box office opened at 9 o'clock, and by 10 every $5 and $3 ticket had been sold. Close to 2,000 tickets were placed on sale, and it is estimated at least 3,000 persons went away disappointed.

Those who failed to secure tickets were loud in voicing their disappointment. Speculators, flashing handfuls of tickets, operated in full view of the box office, and added greatly to the bubbub.

They offered to sell tickets to those in the long line several minutes after the sale commenced. Many of them apparently were represented by agents at the head of the line, and it was said that at least half of the tickets were secured by speculators.

Many of the tickets were disposed of by the speculators before the men in the box office announced that the supply of gallery seats had been exhausted. Three-dollar and $5 tickets were sold for as much as $10 each, and each sale was accompanied by the usual denunciation.

Several of those disappointed indicated their intentions of registering complaints with the Boxing Commission. One aggrieved fan said he was at the Garden at 7:30 a. m., and the line did not move six inches in an hour and a half.

Harry Cashman, speaking for the Show Corporation, said that everything had been done to keep the tickets away from the "scalpers," and that no more than two tickets were sold to any person. The Show Corporation, he said could have sold 20,000 tickets.

It was announced that a few hundred tickets for the better seats have not been sold. These range from $10 up.

Willard a Sure Winner
Jim Corbett Picks Jess

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Former Heavyweight Champion of the World and First Man to Win Title Under Marquis of Queensberry Rules.

NEW YORK, March 24.—I pick Jess Willard, the world's heavyweight champion, to defeat Frank Moran, the challenger, in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. As for a knockout, I think Willard has just a possible chance to score one.

The chance against Willard delivering a knockout is that he never has been an aggressive fighter. In most of his battles, and especially in the Johnson fight, he was not aggressive. But he has told me that against Moran he intends to make a rushing attack. If he lives up to this plan, then his chance of stopping the challenger increases.

Another thing against Willard winning by a knockout is that he has been "pulling" his punches against his sparring partners in the training camp. He has made a big mistake here. His arms are likely to get tired and heavy when he starts to let our his punches, backed by his full power. Then it is that Jess will be forced to let up on the hard punching attack and rely more on his cleverness.

KAYO MORAN'S ONLY CHANCE.

Moran's only chance of victory is, in my opinion, of landing a knockout punch. If Frank wins at all it will be by a knockout, and I think his chances of scoring a vital wallop are very, very small. Still, Willard had better not let Moran hit him too often on the jaw.

Before I go any further with this story, let me say that I have been "kidded" about my selections in former big fights. But those selections haven't always been mine.

A newspaper friend syndicated a weekly fight letter under my signature for a number of years. Without seeing me or asking me my opinion he wrote articles under my name, picking Jeffries to defeat Johnson and Johnson to defeat Willard.

Now, I thought Johnson would beat Jeffries and thought Willard would win the championship from Johnson. I wrote a letter to John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, that I did not believe Jeffries could get in condition to beat anybody. Of course, I could not come out and make public an opinion that I considered Johnson a moral certainty, because at the time I was helping train Jeffries.

JIM DEFENDS HIS PICKING.

When Willard and Johnson were matched I was playing in vaudeville out on the Pacific Coast and was on my way to Australia when the fight came off. Before I sailed, I told H. M. Walker of Hearst's Los Angeles Examiner, I thought Willard would win the title from the negro. Still, the man who was writing my stories said I favored Johnson.

So, you can see that I am not such a bad picker after all.

Moran has a very few advantages over Willard. He is a craftier man and will have the sympathy of the crowd. This, of course, will be quite some asset. It's pretty nice to have the crowd with you: it spurs you on.

Another advantage for Moran is that he will go into the ring with everything to gain and nothing to lose. Let him make a good fight and it will add greatly to his reputation. Willard, on the other hand, will be risking the championship, which, believe me, is no small item.

AND THE WINNER—JESS WILLARD.

Willard has many advantages over Moran. He is the biggest man that ever held the heavyweight championship, and he knows how to make his size count. Willard is the quickest man of his size with his hands that ever climbed into the ring. He is faster with his hands than Moran, too. Jess is fifty pounds heavier and six inches taller than Frank. And that is a big advantage.

After watching both men carefully, I really figure Willard an easy winner. I would like to see Moran annex the title, for he is a fine fellow, personally, and would be a popular champion. But it's too long a shot for me to play to bet on him at any odds.

Lustig and Lore in Main Event at B.M.A.A.

Johnny (Young) Lustig, the New York welterweight, who dropped a close decision to Frankie Mack of Beachmont the last time he performed in Boston, and Johnny Lore of Montreal, an aggressive gloveswoman, who is back on his stride, according to his manager, Joe O'Rourke, square off in the main event at the B. M. A. A. show, Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tonight.

They will travel the usual twelve-round route, providing no knockout comes, with Larry Conley in charge. Promoter Bennett and his lieutenants are confident the Lustig-Lore setto is going to prove one of the big hits of the season.

The semi-windup also smacks of the real thing. It brings together Jim Mahoney, former amateur star, and Lee Anderson, the Berlin, N. H., brunette. The two six-rounders will be refereed by Steve Flaherty and "Red" Kelley of Charlestown, and Jimmy Kenney of Wakefield and "Battling Dick" Peters of New Bedford.

NO 'H'S' FOR THIS TEAM.

Because of the poor showing of the Harvard swimming team, the athletic committee has held up the awarding of the "H" to its members. The question has been referred to the student council for recommendation.

ST. NICKS IN LAST STAND

Must Beat B. A. A. Tomorrow Night in Order to Keep in Running for Title.

A CHAMPIONSHIP is at stake at the Arena tomorrow night, when the B. A. A. hockey team will try to score another win over the St. Nicholas seven in the post-season series for the title in the Amateur Hockey League.

This game is the most important scheduled for this city this season, and the fact that the New Yorkers are in good shape for a bruising battle should make the locals go at top speed to stop them.

The B. A. A. in its winning game with the Harvard Club, Wednesday night, showed that it was a game aggregation, and to win an Amateur League championship has always been the one ambition of the wearers of the Unicorn.

That this ambition is about to be realized is the general opinion of the hockey "fans" who know the game. Any team that stops the Unicorn, judging from the way the latter is playing, will be checking one of the best teams in the country.

The Arena Hockey Club team, which meets the B. A. A. next week in the local championship series, agrees that the Exeter street team is playing faster hockey than any team in the country and to beat the B. A. A. will require exceptional speed and teamwork.

"Hobey" Baker will be in the St. Nick lineup and the blonde wonder ought to go good on the local surface since he likes plenty of playing space on which to roam around.

A. A. U. BOUTS TO BE STAGED APRIL 3-4

Manager George V. Brown of the B. A. A. has begun to set the stage for the annual A. A. U. boxing championships, April 3-4. They will be decided in Mechanics Building, and, in addition to the pick of the Greater Boston gloveteers, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Toronto, Milwaukee, New Orleans and San Francisco are expected to send on their best simon-pures.

ST. ALPHONSUS CLUB AFTER KOLEHMAINEN

The St. Alphonsus Association eight-mile road race, which is to be held on Saturday, April 3, promises some keen competition among the long distance runners.

The New Bedford Harriers have entered their strongest men, including Atwood, the winner of this year's St. Joseph's T. A. S. race; Nelson, Regan, Crocker and Wilkinson. These men are bound to offer strong opposition to the Dorchester Club entries.

The entry of Shrubb, the star runner of Lewiston, Me., has already been received.

Efforts are now being made to secure the entry of Kolehmainen, the New York champion long distance runner.

COMMERCE TEAM IN FRONT IN GALA MEET

Commerce athletes carried off the honors at the regimental meet, featured by hanging up of three new records. Commerce piled up 41 1-2 points, English High 29, Dorchester 5, East Boston 7, Hyde Park 4½, Boston Latin 2, Mechanic Arts 2½, Charlestown 2, West Roxbury 1½, South Boston 1-2.

Harrows (C, H.) got a new intermediate broad jump record, 9 feet 5½ inches; Lieberfarb (C) turned in a new broad jump record for the Juniors, 7 feet 9 inches, and Feeney (E) equaled the intermediate high jump mark, 5 feet 2½ inches.

BOWLING PAIRS CLASH.

Meredith and "Kid" Whiton of Roxbury and Ramsay and George Whiton of Cambridge, two crack bowling pairs, clash in a special ten-string match on the Loop alleys, Roxbury, tonight.

RING RESULTS

New York, March 24.—Al Reich won the decision over Jap (Porky) Ryan of Boston in the opening bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Both dropped five, each in the first round.

Bridgport, Ct., March 24.—George Chip of Newcastle, Pa., knocked out Johnny Howard of Bayonne, N. J., in the sixth round. Kofchel outpointed "Battling" Kunz, ten rounds.

Lawrence, March 24.—Joe Carroll of Derry, N. H., and Tommy Carson of New Haven, Ct., went twelve rounds to a draw at the Unity Club. "Buddy" Dolan and Billy Woods drew and Jack Williams outpointed Tommy Lowe.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 24.—Johnny Riley of Rochester won the twenty-second straight victory by defeating Young Neil in a ten-round bout. Harry Gastle won easily over "Battling" Koppin.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 24.—Sam Langford of Boston outclassed Dusty Mills of New York by such a wide margin, Referee Cawley stopped their bout in the second round.

Oldtown, Maine, March 24.—After shading Dave Powers of Malden in their first six rounder, "Wild Bill" Fleming made the latter quit in the second round in the Seal. Powers claimed he injured his right hand.

Speaker at Sox Camp

Bill's Batteries Ready

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 24.—With the appearance of Tris Speaker this noon the boys began to feel pretty good This is the only thing that has bothered in the least

If Speaker gets into line, and takes hold right away, the team may be said to look like it did in '15, which is going some.

Trying to get a line on the effectiveness of the different twirlers, with one man pitching for a team half of whose members are out of position, is bum stuff. For instance Leonard was made to look easy to hit, but the outfield was pulled in so close you could see the whites of their eyes.

Don't get excited about "Dutch", he will be there with the old-time stuff. Foster is as hard to hit as ever, if not more so, and he slams the ball himself.

Training in Hot Springs is unlike any other spot on the map so far as the pitching end is concerned. While the men on the firing line get loose and show considerable stuff they really do not get their strength until after they leave here.

Then their arms begin to show the benefits of the hot water. The old-timers understand this and work accordingly, but the new men are beginning to wonder why their arms are not showing up in better shape.

The change in the weather, from Summer heat to a chill wind, has given the squad more "pep" if anything. The stay here being brief, the boys realize what every inside means to them and there is not a shirker in the squad

THE HEATED CAR HELPS.

The use of the car in the ride back and from the hotel is a relief to some of the boys, who were getting about all they needed of the mountain trails. They get off at the corner of the road leading down to Majestic Park and usually take the distance on the sprint. The warm them up for the early part of the work such as bunting and throwing the ball about until the infield and outfield practice starts

From now until the end of the grind the pitchers will get something on that ball and the hitting will be put to the test. From what I have seen it looks as if the World's Champions would hit the ball harder than last year. They all have a healthy swing at the ball, meeting it squarely, and few of them are guilty of that habit of hitting under the ball, which lofts it or gives the fielders a fungo to chase.

Sharp infield raps, line drives over the heads of the batsmen and clean smashes to the far corners look awful, good at this stage of the game

On a team that is practically made up before the season starts there is not much in the excitement in competition. The men in the regular positions feel sure of their jobs and the subs know the only thing left for them is an occasional game through injury or illness

BATTERY MEN IN TRIM.

The battery men are in fine condition, and the task of weeding out the men not to be carried will not give Manager Carrigan much trouble. He has at the present moment a fine hand to draw to in Foster, Shore, Mays, Leonard Ruth and Gregg. With Pennock displaying the most marvelous of curves but lacking the essential in control

Anderson is feeling the effect of the baths and is not as strong as he might be, but he is a clever talker, with plenty of "stuff". McHale is rounding into the shape expected of him and getting stronger every day. It looks as if he would be carried

In the catching department the champions are well fortified. Carrigan means to be in the game and Agnew is sure to deliver the goods. Thomas and Cady are a good pair for the job, while Haley is hitting the ball so hard it will be difficult to keep him in the background. All of which shows in what a pleasant situation the stand-pat world beaters are

Now that the Speaker incident is likely to be removed from the trouble ahead of the team, the boys are taking new courage and cannot see how they can have other than the best chance in the world of giving the fans of Boston a repeater

"Was a Big Job, But We've Made Good"--Rickard

By GEO. L. "TEX" RICKARD.
Promoter Willard-Moran Fight.

NEW YORK, March 24.—"When I took on the job of promoting the bout, and tied myself up to nearly $100,000 to expend right at the start, the fans were skeptical as to how I would come out.

"I don't blame them. It was a big job to handle—but we've made good. All but a few of the 20,000 and 925 seats have been sold and these surely will be disposed of before fight time.

That means that the receipts will be beyond $160,000, leaving a nice profit for Sam McCracken and myself.

J. H. Ledoux, manager of the Royal Canadian hockey team of Ottawa, Can., writes the AMERICAN, challenging the Arena and R. A. A. sevens on behalf of his outfit. Ledoux claims that the Royal Canadians recently defeated the Aberdeens, 4-1. He invites a response by wire, phone or letter and especially desires quick action.

SEMI-FINAL PAIRS AT CHESTNUT HILL

R. Norris Williams, 2d, former national champion, and Harry C. Johnson and Irving C. Wright and G. P. Gardner, Jr., clash in the semi-final round in the invitation tournament at the Longwood covered courts, Chestnut Hill, today. The matches are down to start at 5 p. m.

ANDERSON OUT AT TUFTS.

Herb Anderson, Tufts' crack left fielder, is to have his injured leg operated on, and Coach Flattery fears he will be forced to miss the opening battles. Kropps, Whittaker and O'Mara, the team's three veteran hurlers, are showing up in great shape.

HERE'S A REGULAR BET.

Chicago, March 24.—Harry Moir, owner of the Morrison Hotel, today laid Edmund Allen, ex-warden of the Joliet penitentiary, $18,000 to $16,000 that Willard knocks out Moran, or is named the victor by the majority o the New York sporting writers.

Braves Flay Macks, 8-3

Rudolph Fools Enemy

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

MIAMI, Fla., March 24.—This afternoon the Braves and Athletics met in their sixth straight clash—the other four came off in October, 1914—to decide the championship of Miami. The Braves also will have five games in and feel confident the sixth will come their way

Having served the Mackmen with two right handers in winning yesterday, 8 3, the chances are this afternoon Nelf, Tyler and Allen will be sent against the Macks

The Athletics have yet to see Nahors Morrisette and Dis as and it seems probable that the three of them will work This morning neither team worked all the boys spending the time lolling about the Grayson or "dipping" it the Royal Palm pool

With a good crowd a site pitted it is not thought the Braves to day will anywhere near equal that of yesterday, when 2 840 saw the clash

The eight to three score hardly tells the story, for in reality the Braves should have scored at least four or five more runs. Save for one inning, when Rudolph eased off a bit, and the Athletics collected their runs, the visitors were always at the mercy of our boys

There is nothing about the Athletic team to indicate that Connie Mack will cop a pennant this year, but there is some excellent material among the boys Harry Davis leads down here

Malone looks to be a fixture at second base, according to the Philadelphia scribes in Miami with the team They declare that Lajoie, who remained at Jacksonville with the rest of the squad, will be supplanted by the kid

For the present a bad record Peck, with a nice pair of hands and good form at the bat, is up to snuff in the corner Later, Witt, a New England schoolboy, will join the squad and will probably play third.

Stuffy McInnis is the same old first baseman and a mighty good one at that The mainstay brought here there is no fine fielder, but he couldn't hit safe with a paddle

Thompson a newcomer, playing centre, looks like a good ball player Batting second yesterday he tied the first five times, drawing four passes He would have got off for six in fact that Baseball Manager Barrow had a batting order printed and the Athletics had to go by the card

Crowell, the former Brown University star, is pitching fine ball at present, and would have had nine innings scoreless but for the fact that he was slightly injured recently by being hit by a batted ball

Joe Bush seems to have lost as much speed as ever and is showing another of the young pitchers, looks good. In another year Connie Mack has a first class ball club, running

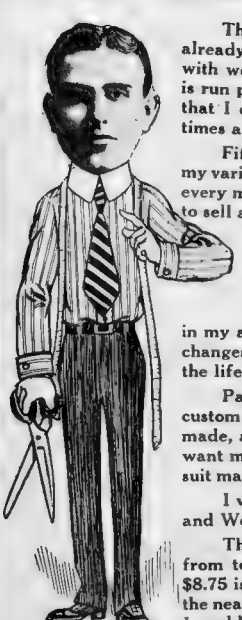
Three-Piece Suit to Order $8.75



The increase in the cost of goods and the anticipation that has already been realized, caused me some two months ago to load up with woolens that are now commencing to come in. My business is run positively on quick turn-overs. In order to make the prices that I do in the newspapers, I must turn my stock two or three times a month. The minute there is a letup I am overloaded.

Fifteen days of snow in Boston and throughout the country in my various stores, finds me loaded to the gills with woolens. I want every man who reads this ad to know one thing: I never pretend to sell anything at a loss. There is a slight profit on every sale that I make, and when I tell you, today, that inside my Boston store, 277 Washington St., there is a great big piece of Blue Serge bearing the label, "Three-Piece Suit to Order $8.75," and I guarantee this color, absolutely all wool, you can find the goods there. The price will be as quoted in my advertisement. The goods will be all wool, and if the color changes you are permitted to bring the suit back any time within the life of the garment.

Patterns will be designed by the highest priced designer of custom clothing in the country. Suit will be made to fit or new suit made, and every Blue Serge suit that I send out at this season I want my salesman to assure the customer that he cannot have this suit made in Boston within twice the price that I charge for it.

I will also have fifty styles of Tweeds, Cheviots, Cassimeres and Woolen suitings that bear the tag, "Suit to Order, $8.75."

This inducement is offered simply to force business. Ten days from today we have normal trade for Easter, and, believe me, $8.75 is a figure that no man can produce a suit of clothes for in the near future under any conditions, as the woolens I am showing I could not buy today to produce within 50% more than I am now charging you.

"His Flowers"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1916, by International News Service

THAT person who in sibilant childish whispers is said to be able to "see things" would be just his side partner for Danny Inc. In his fingers he could rather all the tangled myriad-colored threads of marled romances and straighten them out as Graciosa of faery-land did with the heap of Perchnel. All in a night, my goodness! On the trail of girls and flowers one would stalk very well footed. And what he saw when a girl snapped her white head with a smiling face would help Dan C. a heap.

[illegible] that [illegible] girls who sense life in everything that [illegible] in a breath of wind as the flower sways, who are kind to [illegible] and if it come from a man whose name makes her lip curl. A' course here—what could an eavesdropper do but go back with "nothing to report" from the front? But the "see-er of things" would know. For there would be no ghost of a lover hovering over the dewy mass of the blossoms that brought his heart along.

But HIS flowers! The spyer with the eyes of the medium here would chuckle deep and write in his little black note-book with a sharp pencil, "I've found her out—find description of the man over page." For over the red and white roses she held in cupping, caressing hands and brushed tenderly against her lips, cob-web like, spun from velvet rose to satin one glistening with dew, would bend the shade of a face, just a man's hardy, perhaps homely face—but very splendid to the girl who eyes him above HIS flowers.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Has Sweet Sixteen Vanished?

"Very Sad," Says Beatrice Fairfax, "to See Little Girls Trying to Ape the Fashions of Their Elders."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHERE is sweet sixteen? She seems to have departed from the hearts of men. She was a very lovable little thing who wore simple, modest clothes and had a manner to match, and she grew up into a very lovable woman whom "all men delighted to honor." Where is she?

Doesn't some group of sensible little girls want to bring little girldom back into fashion? It will be very welcome. I suggest that some of my girls start sweet sixteen clubs with the idea of promoting childhood.

"De Gobt Kvs hauser Mairt" says the old German proverb. And it is pathetically true that "there aren't any children more." On the avenue, in the theatres, at dances, wherever groups of people are gathered, one observes pathetic little travesties of womanhood who look at the first glance like dwarfs and who turn out to be poor foolish little girls aping the worst foibles of the grown up woman of today.

A few evenings ago I stood in a subway station waiting for a train. Before me came two at once figures, and my instinctive reflection was, "How unfortunate that two little dwarfs should make themselves cheaply conspicuous with those absurd high boots and short skirts and pertly cocked little hats and all that nakedness."

They looked like tragic fig ures from a distance. Eyes enamelled in staring whiteness, cheeks rouged pink and lips painted crimson, eyes blackened and shadowed in absurd makeup, and flashy clothes made all eyes focus on them.

At last they came quite, quite near me, and I found from their conversation and their rather pathetic little old young faces that they were fresh from high school, and that one of them had celebrated her thirteenth birthday the year before.

It hurt me in the more observing. Am I how sadly it is going to hurt these youngsters who prated one moment of their difficulties with their studies and the next about the boys they "had a crush on," and the third about how stingy the folks were not to buy them more than two party dresses a season.

What are the mothers and fathers thinking about to permit this travesty, this unholy parody of womanhood? If they have lost control of their children, both they and the children will pay a bitter reckoning some day. It won't do. Something must very a halt.

We have to have children I appeal to the little girls and boys themselves. Why not go on a quest for youth? It is the most beautiful thing in the world. You can never have it again. Some day you may actually be driven to imitating it just as people do [illegible] [illegible] you can't be happy.

I appeal to the parents. Surely you know how costly you are going to pay for the youthful deliberateness and irresponsibility and simplicity of viewpoint you can possess. Surely you cherish every reminder of youth, every expression of youth in your own nature.

Do you want your children to grow up [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

LIST OF 'BETTER BABIES' PRIZES ON SUNDAY

The AMERICAN will print on Sunday next the list of forty-one prizes which will be offered to Greater Boston winners in the "Better Babies" contest, which has been begun by the AMERICAN and other Hearst newspapers.

The Hearst newspapers in other cities will also offer prizes for the best babies in the territory served by these newspapers, and from all of the sets of winners will be chosen the champion "best" baby in the United States.

The contest is now on. It will close May 6. Mothers are requested to enroll their babies in the contest NOW.

Send in to the "Better Babies" Contest Editor a letter giving facts about the baby. Be sure that the letter contains these facts:

Name of baby; father's and mother's names; city or town and street address; sex of applicant; date of birth; condition at birth; whether or not breast fed; if so, how many months. If foods were used, give names of foods used at present.

IMPORTANT!

This is most important:

Give measurements—weight, height, circumference of head, circumference of chest and circumference of abdomen.

The contest is open to babies from six months to twenty months old, inclusive.

Great care should be taken to make the measurements and tests exact. If possible get the registered nurse or the family physician to help with the tests.

Elements which will figure in a perfect baby are too numerous to be put on any card, but if the answers to the letter are satisfactory and come up to a high standard of excellence a later opportunity will be given to the judging committee to determine concerning other points.

The baby's eyes, ears, mouth, teeth, bones, heart, lungs, flesh, hair, will be noted and recorded as to physical perfection.

DIRECTIONS FOR TESTS.

Mental characteristics will be more thoroughly studied with scientific equipment than is possible for the average busy mother.

When you weigh your baby be sure the scales are perfectly balanced, and wait until he is perfectly still before recording figures.

In taking the height, if the infant is under eighteen months, or cannot walk, lay him on the table or board and measure him by marking the places where his head and feet touch. The toes should not be extended, and the measurement made from the sole of the foot.

When head, abdomen and chest are measured, get some one to help who can put down the figures as soon as they are learned.

Be sure the tape is placed about the largest part of the head, chest, and abdomen in taking measurements.

As a possible help to mothers who wish to enter the contest, quotations are taken from the directions issued by the American Medical Association:

"In taking the circumference of the head, the tape should be placed and held firmly over the occipital protuberances in the back of the head and over the frontal eminence in front. This gives the largest measurement.

"Circumference of the chest is taken at the nipple line, taking care not to pull the tape too tight.

"Circumference of the abdomen is taken at the umbilicus, and here also the tape should not be pulled too tight, as a difference of over an inch may be made by so doing."

BROOKLINE WOMAN ASKS ANNULMENT

Margaret Rogers, otherwise known as Mrs. Margaret Blake, filed at Dedham today, through her attorney, C. E. McGillicuddy, a petition to the Norfolk superior Court for an anulment of her marriage to Charles Brooks Blake of New York, formerly of Brookline, on the ground that Blake had a wife living when he married the petitioner.

The petitioner says that she was married to Blake on June 14, 1911, that a child was born to them on August 31, 1915, and that they lived in Brookline. She adds that she found that Blake was married in 1910 to Agnes C. Blake of Quincy and was not divorced at the time of the second ceremony.

FREE ELEVATOR BOY ON MANSLAUGHTER

John P. Killeen, elevator boy in the Lawrence building, where Miss Eleanor Chase of Medford was killed by a fall down the elevator well on February 11, was discharged by Judge Sullivan in the city court today after a hearing on a charge of manslaughter.

Miss Chase had apparently left the ascending car at the seventh floor by mistake, as she worked on the eighth floor. Killeen said that after he started the car up, he saw Miss Chase's fingers clutching at the outside edge of the seventh floor. Her hold broke and she fell seventy feet down the shaft.

The police charged Killeen with negligence in failing to close the seventh floor door before starting up.

STRIKE OF GRANITE CUTTERS NEAR END

Circulation in Quincy today of a petition calling for a special meeting of the Granite Manufacturers' Association on next Monday night created a report that a settlement of the strike of 1,500 granite cutters, which has been in progress since March 1, was in sight. The strike was caused by the refusal of the manufacturers to sign a new working agreement for a five-year term. It was reported today that the manufacturers may sign.

Stocks Ruled Higher at the Opening, but Gains Diminished Soon—Both Markets Irregular by Noon—Zincs Started Strong and Turned Weak

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS---By W. H. ROSS

Stocks were irregular by noon in New York and Boston with both markets dull. They were comparatively inactive most of the morning, but in the second hour in New York was confined to a few issues, but it did not last long. Railroads improved the most of any class, and among the strongest were Pennsylvania, Reading, Maryland, Erie, Union Pacific and New York Central. War industrials relaxed most conspicuously, Bethlehem Steel declared an initial quarterly dividend of 31.25 on that capital stock, and by midday it was showing a gain. Lackawanna Steel was weak, as were steel issues in general. Its directors

Gains in Boston included New Idria Q., Osceola, Calumet & Hecla, Utah Copper and Franklin.

Among declines were Shattuck 2 and Tamarack 2.

Old Dominion and U. S. Smelting were unchanged.

SLIGHTLY HIGHER AT START.

Stocks opened on a slightly higher level in New York, taking the list as a whole. But price changes were immediately narrowed and the movement soon on the initial transaction. Zincs were strong and Butte & Superior was the leader of the active issues. The market situation had not changed, to the least sense the close yesterday. Early trading was of the usual dull character. After it appeared to have a downward trend temporarily, but a broad and appreciable Lackawanna Steel was weak, opening 3½ lower. Crucible Steel declined. Rio Tinto was also weak, opening 1 lower, and the average room trader is manifesting little inclination to go far in commitments in fact it is again a period of "sufficient waiting" in speculative circles and the market is quiet and inactive. There was more doing comparatively in mining shares. Anaconda and Inspiration were traded in to a considerable extent and both were higher. The market soon became irregular, though declines were not large and the recession was largely due to inertia. After the opening order of sorts was out trading became dull. There was no signs of public interest at commission houses. Professional sentiment was rather bearish, but this was in a measure due to the lack of anything to inspire traders to take initiative.

A large number of unusually active stocks are quoted on the tape within the first fifteen minutes.

BOSTON MARKET WAS FIRM.

The Boston market was firm at the start, but narrow and quiet. The features of trading were the ones New Idria advanced. U. S. Smelting was strong and fairly active. A number of other issues were also higher. Some American Zinc soon sold at its high on record price.

Sales today for 2,000 tons of copper has been reported in this country from Europe, and it is understood that all the metal is needed there for war use.

Domestic consumption of copper this Spring is going to be larger than previous figures estimated, according to statements in New York. There is more demand for April and May deliveries than was expected.

London spot copper was up 10s, with futures and electrolytic unchanged. Spot tin and futures were up £2 10s., while Straits advanced £3. Spot lead and futures were 2s. 6d. higher. Spot spelter and futures declined 1s.

NEW HAVEN LOSES HIGH COURT APPEAL

Judge Carroll in the Supreme Court today dismissed the motion of the New Haven Railroad Company, asking a modification of an injunction issued by Judge Hasbrouck in 1914 against transferring stock shares. The motion was in connection with Rules 8 Bartlett's $102,000,000 suit against directors, asking for a decree to set aside transfer 237 shares of stock from Judge J. Heaton Rodman to Col. Frank Mondon. New York stockbroker, who says the stock was bought on the New York Stock Exchange.

A Reply to Criticism of Anti-Saloon League

A VERY bitter editorial attack upon the Hearst papers' temperance policies has been made by American Issue, an organ of the Anti-Saloon League.

It is to be regretted that some temperance advocates cannot be more temperate and tolerant in their attitude toward other persons' honest convictions and honest efforts for good.

All men cannot think alike.

A great many good people believe in absolute prohibition, a great many believe in total abstinence without prohibition, a great many believe in temperance, in moderation and mild drinks, some believe in closing up the saloons and substituting family beer gardens, others believe in closing up the saloons and not substituting anything. BUT THERE SHOULD NOT BE ANY HOSTILITY BETWEEN THE DIFFERENT TEMPERANCE MOVEMENTS. They are all honest movements and all for a good cause, and they should all proceed in harmony as far as possible and with toleration and respect for each other's objects and motives.

The AMERICAN does not believe in prohibition, but it does believe in temperance. It believes even in the advisability of total abstinence. But it does not believe that prohibition promotes either temperance or total abstinence.

The AMERICAN cannot better state its own attitude than by reprinting Mr. Hearst's own letter of instructions, addressed to the editor of the San Francisco Examiner, which sums up the whole matter, as viewed by Mr. Hearst and advocated, of course, by his many publications:

New York, Jan. 23, 1916.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

My instructions in regard to the rejection of the undesirable advertising seem to me to Be sufficiently clear, but I will repeat them and elaborate them if you desire.

I said that the Hearst publications were to reject all whiskey advertising and all advertising of any ardent liquors. I said that the papers were also to reject all advertisements of so-called medicines containing opiates or alcohol in habit-forming quantities.

The Hearst newspapers have always carried on a vigorous crusade against whiskey and other such strong drinks, so that my instructions did not necessitate any new departure, but merely insisted upon the extension to the advertising columns of the policy which had always been maintained in the editorial columns.

Our papers for years crusaded against the use of whiskey and all such ardent liquors, believing such strong drink to be destructive of the mentality and morality of humanity as well as the physical efficiency of mankind.

Our papers have always stood for temperance, for total abstinence, if you please, but not for prohibition.

The reason that I have not advocated prohibition is because, as far as my experience with the workings of such laws goes, prohibition does not prohibit.

Prohibition transforms the open sale of alcoholic beverages into a secret sale.

An open sale can be regulated and restricted.

A secret sale can not.

Therefore, I have advocated regulation, restriction, moral suasion, but not prohibition.

There are a great many States which are marked upon the map as prohibition States.

In any one of these States it is possible to get an alcoholic drink, but the only alcoholic drink it is possible to get is a condensed, concentrated liquor with a large and violently injurious proportion of alcohol.

In other words, prohibition makes the sale of alcoholic drinks illicit, and the alcoholic drinks which can be most easily sold in an illegal, illicit trade are the compact, condensed and highly concentrated alcoholic drinks, like whiskey.

It has seemed to me, therefore, that prohibition tends to suppress the sale of wines and beers and the less harmful alcoholic drinks, and to stimulate the sale of whiskey and the worst forms of alcoholic drinks.

We may eventually reach a state of development in which no one will desire to take a stimulant of any kind, but until we do reach that state of development there will be a large proportion of the population which will desire to take some stimulating drink. It has always seemed to me undesirable to create conditions which supply this proportion of the population with the most concentrated and most harmful stimulants, and deprive it of the milder and less harmful stimulants.

It is in no way a convincing argument to say that because a thing is harmful in large quantities it must also be harmful in minute amounts, and that, therefore, a beverage which contains a small amount of alcohol is as harmful as a beverage which contains a large amount.

Strychnine is fatal in large doses and yet is regularly prescribed by the medical profession as a stimulant in minute quantities.

I believe that this principle, within limitations, is applicable to stimulating drinks, and I believe that the sumptuary system in such successful operation in Denmark would operate with equal success in this country.

In that country a definite proportion of alcohol which a drink is allowed to contain is determined by law, and no drink with a larger proportion of alcohol than this is permitted to be sold, and no drink with a smaller proportion is subjected to any unreasonable government restriction.

Now, if our newspapers are opposed to whiskey and such strong drinks, and if we are urging the people who read our papers to abstain from whiskey and such strong drinks, we surely have no right to accept for pay an advertisement which urges our readers to partake of whiskey or such strong drink, or of any so-called medicines containing alcohol or opiates in injurious or habit-forming quantities.

I intend, therefore, not only to reject all such undesirable advertisements, but to oppose the manufacture, use, prescription or sale of all such harmful concoctions, exactly as I stated in my letter of instructions.

I have complete tolerance for those who think differently from me in regard to what is legitimate advertising and in regard to what is proper sumptuary regulation, but I can only be guided by my own conviction of what is right and what is best for the community, and by that conviction, I shall stand.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

The above statement outlines and expresses the attitude of all the Hearst publications, and inasmuch as the amount of advertising excluded from the Hearst publications by this ruling amounts to over half a million dollars a year, there would seem to be a reasonable amount of sincerity in Mr. Hearst's position.

FAIR AND WARMER! BAH!
WEATHER BUREAU! HA, HA!
HE'S AN OLD FRAUD!
HE SAID SPRING WAS HERE!
BAW! I'M COLD!
B-R-R-R!
I'M FREEZING!
LET ME EXPLAIN! THIS COLD SPELL IS OWING TO A SUDDEN CHANGE IN THE ATMOSPHERIC PRESSURE, AND—
SHUT UP!
AND HE CALLS HIMSELF A WEATHER PROPHET
WHAT DO YOU THINK OF HIM? HE CLAIMED WINTER WAS OVER!
FOPPER

"What are they snowballing poor Professor Stonchatchet for?"

"Aw, that old nut deserves it. He got up what he called a 'weather bureau' lately, and his prediction for this week was 'fair and warmer.'"

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Annual Spring Poem

THE lawn is starred with many a gaudy crocus;
Across the hills the gentle zephyrs stray;
(I wonder what the coal man's going to soak us
For that two tons we had to get today).
The robins are not here, but we expect them;
They'll seek the clime that instinct leads them to,
And trust in Mother Nature to protect them;
(They'll certainly be suckers if they do).

ONCE more the beauty of the earth is waking
When birds and bees and flowers reappear,
(It seems to me that furnace must need shaking;
An Eskimo would freeze to death in here).
The sun is clear and warm; the grass is springing,
About the garden walks the insects hum,
The butterflies among the trees are winging,
(I've got to quit; my hands are getting numb).

THE scent of blossoms all the air is thrilling,
(Poetic, but extremely inexact);
The little frogs their joyous songs are trilling,
(They're frozen in the ice, in point of fact).
'Tis good to see, in this delightful season,
The tulips thrusting upward in a row;
(But one can't see 'em, for the simple reason
That it's too cold for anything to grow).

Straws

The sudden cessation of demands for Mr. Hughes as a presidential candidate indicate that there isn't nearly as much certainty as formerly that he won't go into the race.

The National Sin

Inspection of the coal bins also reveals a lack of preparedness.

And a Fine Job They Made of It

This Mexican brawl is the one that the A. B. C. mediators kept us out of.

The Privilege of the Friend

George Harvey doesn't hate Mr. Wilson any more, but he still believes it his duty to attack him whenever the administration is right.

Like Some of His Successors

The President who complained that he had Congress on his hands was lucky that he didn't have it on his neck.

Let There Be Some Preparation

We hope Mr. Wilson will defer his belligerent plans at least until he gets rid of the rest of his Cabinet.

With Jean Crones at Large

Thomas A. Edison says he would rather work than attend a banquet. So would a lot of other people just now.

Taking a Tip From Miles Standish

The slacker who wounded himself in the leg seemed to believe that if one wants anything well done one would better do it one's self.

Now They Know Better

The Spaniards said there would be a war if we invaded Cuba. They were right. We did invade Cuba, and there was a war. Mr. Carranza may learn something to his advantage if he takes the trouble to find out the result.

Merely a Difference of Methods

Men of Twenty-five Thousand Years Ago

By Prof. Henry F. Osborn

(Conclusions in His Book, "Men of the Old Stone Age."—Scribner's).

THE rise of the spirit of man through the Old Stone Age cannot be traced continuously in a single race because the races were changing; as at the present time one race replaced another, or two races dwelt side by side. The sudden appearance in Europe at least 25,000 years ago of a human race with a high order of brain power and ability was not a leap forward but the effect of a long process of evolution elsewhere. When the prehistoric archæology of Eastern Europe and of Asia has been investigated we may obtain some light on this antecedent development.

During this age the rudiments of all the modern economic powers of man were developed: the guidance of the hand by the mind, manifested in his creative industry; his inventive faculty; the currency or spread of his inventions; the adaptation of means to ends in utensils, in weapons and in clothing.

The same is true of the aesthetic powers, of close observation, of the sense of form, of proportion, of symmetry, the appreciation of beauty of animal form in modeling and sculpture. Finally, the schematic representation and notation of ideas so far as we can perceive was rather alphabetic than pictographic. Of the musical sense we have at present no evidence.

The religious sense, the appreciation of some power or powers behind the great phenomena of nature, is evidenced in the reverence for the dead, in burials apparently related to notions of a future existence of the dead, and especially in the mysteries of the art of the caverns.

All these steps indicate the possession of certain generic faculties of mind similar to our own. That the mind of the Upper Palæolithic races was of a kind capable of a high degree of education we entertain no doubt whatever because of the very advanced order of brain which is developed in the higher members of these ancient races; in fact, it may be fairly assumed from experiences in the education of existing races of much lower brain capacity, such as the Eskimo or Fuegian. The emergence of such a mind from the mode of life of the Old Stone Age is one of the greatest mysteries of psychology and of history.

The rise and fall of cultures and of industries, which is at this very day the outstanding feature of the history of Western Europe, was fully typified in the very ancient contests with stone weapons which were waged along the borders of the Somme, the Marne, the Seine and the Danube. No doubt each invasion, each conquest, each substitution of an industry or a culture had within it the impelling conflict of the spirit and will of man, the intelligence directing various industrial and warlike implements, the superiority either by force or of mind.

Humane Education Plan

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Shows

Now Making Real Progress

Example Set by Rochester Society, a Pioneer in Work, Followed in Many Cities—Systematic Courses of Study Provided for Public Schools With Prizes for Best Essays

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

HUMANE education is making its way into public schools with much success. The acting chairman of Humane Education in Rochester, N. Y., says:

"Fifteen years ago the Rochester Humane Society, a pioneer in the field, began the work of educating the school children of the city in humane ideals. Today we find humane societies all over the country following this kind of work and looking to our society for guidance. At the convention of the American Humane Association, held in November in St. Augustine, our delegates found humane education to be the keynote sounded. May we take unto ourselves due credit?

"Of course the work done here has progressed greatly in the last fifteen years. Where at one time an occasional lecture was given, now all the public school children in the city are shown why they should be kind to animals. Through the courtesy of the Board of Education and the Superintendent of Schools, Miss Woodward gives lectures in each school.

"There were eighty-one lectures given during the year 1915, the assembly halls in many of the schools permitting several grades to be addressed at one time. Interested by Miss Woodward, the children made a splendid response to our offer of prizes for essays on the following subjects:

How Subjects Are Assigned to the Various Grades of a School

"Subject for Eighth Grade—1. Our Common Birds: What ones have you become acquainted with? 2. Game Birds: Why should humane people countenance the shooting of game birds, so-called, at any time?

"Subject for Seventh Grade—Hibernation: The relation of cold to animal life.

"Subject for Sixth Grade—The Horse: The difference between the work horse, the race horse, the fire horse and the saddle horse.

"Subject for Fourth Grade—How I found a home. (Cat or dog story.)

"Subject for Fifth Grade—The Horse: Is he a laborer? Does he have the right to wages? What should they be?

"Subject for Sixth Grade—Bird habits.

"Subject for Seventh Grade—How insects live: How they breathe and how they eat.

"Subject for Eighth Grade—Animal painters and sculptors and some of their masterpieces.

"These are good subjects, and require research study and thought which will benefit the minds of children and add to their knowledge, while it awakens their sympathies for all our dumb kin.

"Here is a touching and true story of how a cat awoke the humane spirit in the hearts of rude men: A stray cat crept into an empty freight car. There she gave birth to a family of kittens. When they were a few weeks old the car was attached to an outgoing train.

For three days the frightened mother and starving kittens rode in that car without food or water. Then the wail of the mother cat was heard by one of the brakemen. The car was opened and the almost dying animals discovered. Two kittens were dead; the others nearly so. The brakeman brought milk and the ravenous and gaunt mother refused to touch it until she had carried her two living kittens to the saucer first and had watched them drink. Then she satisfied her own thirst.

"The brakemen, who until that time had regarded cats with no more consideration than they gave to rats or mice, were not ashamed to shed tears over this poor tramp feline.

"Here is the true and touching end of the story:

Men Made Better in Every Way by Example of Unselfish Cat.

"They shook hands around the little group and vowed that they would never ill use an animal as long as they lived. She had taught them a lesson. The fellows had been quarrelsome among themselves; hatred and malice had ruled their lives; now a couple of men who had not been on speaking terms for months forgave each other and made it up. There was no end to the sunshininess which those few tears had washed away; the unselfish deed of a poor animal had melted the ice, and the stony hearts had become hearts of flesh.

"When the train reached the nearest station the men handed over the purring mother and her still living kittens to the station master, and they made up a little purse among themselves for their keep.

"Before starting off again they made a strong appeal to their new friend to treat the little family well, with a promise like that of the Good Samaritan, of further payment for their food when next they came that way. From that hour a feeling of brotherhood prevailed among the little band, and it was all pussy's doings."

Fevers That Bloom in the Spring

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

PART TWO

IT IS not the March weather we suffer from in March, but the December and January and February weather, which has then piled up its effects upon us to the breaking point. In other words, we are sick in March, not because it is March, but because it is the month that follows January and February.

If we could suddenly put July in its place, weather and all, we would suffer just the same, though probably not quite so severely, because we could take the open-air cure and enjoy it.

The deaths and diseases and breakdowns of early Spring are piled up there by the accumulated strains of four months of Winter's cold keeping us prisoners in our houses, sealing up doors and windows, stewing in our own breaths, with unlimited swapping of disease germs backward and forward under hothouse conditions.

In most climates four months of Winter gloom and smoke, cloud and fog, cut the hours of sunshine of the short Winter day down to 40 per cent. of the Summer and Fall average. Everything fades in the dark, except disease germs and other moulds and slimes.

So don't be afraid of the blustering Spring weather. It is the best antidote and cure there is for the piled up poisons in your system and biliousness and dark brown taste in the mouth of your long Winter's imprisonment.

By a curiously similar mistaken logic the Romans used to blame the fickle weather of the early Spring unjustly and accuse it of causing malaria—"The sun of March that breedeth agues," as Virgil phrased it.

Its genial warmth did not "breed" malaria in the human body, but it did thaw out the early mosquito and encourage it to fly abroad and bite.

Indeed, it is probable that quite a share of the bad reputation of February as the fever month, in classic times, was due to malaria spread by the early birds of the mosquito family, who were extremely hardy and would eagerly take a chance almost any time that the mercury rose 10 degrees above freezing.

And it is possible that our famous "Spring fever" tradition had its origin in malaria, and the stretchy, yawning, good-for-nothing actuations that come with it.
